Shot Leaping Hedge, Griselio Torresola Lies Dead -:- Oscar Collazo Was Wounded at Blair House Steps in Wild Gun Battle

Guns Fell Pair In Wild Melee

By RALPH McGILL

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1—For a time no one believed it. But it was true.

About 2:15 o'clock, while the heavy, oppressive heat of a November Indian Summer lay over the nation's capital, two neatly dressed men walked up to the twin entries to the Blair House and with drawn guns attempted to intimidate the guards who, with traditional courage, drew and shot.

Within a few ticks of your watch that small portion of Washington, which is just across from the old State Department building, and which is between Jackson Place and 17th Street, was a cameo cut and etched sharply from all the rest of Washington.

In that small space, with old Andrew Jackson on his iron horse looking toward it, and with the bronze face of the great Frenchman, Jean Baptiste Rochambeau, commander of the French in our war for freedom, looking sternly on, there was resolution and panic.

Inside the Blair House, the President, whom the two men, crazed Puerto Ricans, planned to kill, went calmly about his business of preparing to go to Arlington Cemetery to speak at the unveiling of a statue to Gen. John Dill, British Chief of Staff in the late war.

Harry Truman was, like many an American past middle-age, taking a nap when the shooting occurred. He was lying on his bed in his shorts and undershirt when the gunfire awakened him.

He hurried to a window.

Calm President Dresses, Quiets Wife

A Secret Service man ordered him back. Americans lose sight of the fact the Secret Service men can give orders to the President.

The President calmly dressed, quieting Mrs. Truman.

Down on the street there was running and screaming. The government workers on the way back from lunch had been suddenly fixed in the midst of gunfire and whining lead which sounded just like it does in the television cowboy dramas, but which was real. Ten shots, some say more, were fired.

In the midst of it, destiny put a news photographer. Charles Corte, of Acme, got out and took a shot of one of the gunmen and then ran for cover.

The guards shot down both the Puerto Ricans, killing one and wounding another. The dead assassin was identified as Griselio Torresola. The wounded was Oscar Collazo, for 20 years a metal polisher in New York and a fanatic Puerto Rican Nationalist in New York, where his wife and two daughters wept, but were not surprised by the dreadful news.

In the early evening Torresola had been definitely identified. He was a grocer in the Bronx, and owned a two-family house. His tenants said he was a soft-spoken man, quiet and shy.

Collazo's wife and daughter were taken down for questioning Wednesday night. Collazo was formally booked on a murder charge.

The FBI was, of course, not talking. But it was obviously deep into it.

The fiction-like desperate try was patently the work of a secret terrorist organization and the two men selected for the daring effort to storm their way into Blair House were just run-of-the-mill persons selected by lot.

One cannot fail to think of what they said and felt as they waited in their hotel room, and made their plans. A metal polisher and a grocer were out to kill the President of the United States. They didn't know much about shooting. They were, of course, nervous. Still, they had it well planned. One approached eastward down the avenue, the other from the west, they hoped that if one were to fail the other would get through.

It is not yet known whether they had a floor plan or knew where the President was having his afternoon nap. Sleeping in his underwear, a fact which proves him again to be indeed the common, or average man.

Hopping President a Human Picture

Other pictures came, too. The President was ordered back from the window. Guards didn't know then what other gunmen might be outside to shoot at windows. One has to smile at the thought of the President, hopping on one leg, pulling on his pants. It is a very human story and picture.

The Blair House is one of the old colonial homes from the early period of Washington's history, and has known much history. It was a guest house when the White House was occupied by the President. It has known kings, princes, queens and prime ministers.

But, Harry Truman, putting on his pants, with screaming and running in the street, is a new picture.

Yet, it is impossible to neglect his courage. He was calm. He quieted his wife. He had his daughter notified and assured. And he went on out to Arlington and made his speech.

He and the magnificent guards look well.

Three guards were shot, and doctors labored mightily to save them, while their hastily summoned families sat white-faced and weeping in the anterooms. One guard died later. He was Pvt. Leslie Coffelt.

About the time the President began to pull his pants on over his drawers and yank on a shirt, the street was filled with screaming sound. Police cars came. Grim-faced police, Secret Service men and plainclothes officers arrived at great speed, their cars

What Will the Harvest Be?

WASHINGTON—This is the time of the harvest moon. In the rich valleys and bottom lands the noise of the insatiable corn picker, the tractor-pulled disc plows cutting corn stalks into mulch, and the drills sowing wheat where so lately grew the thick-planted hybrid corns, all testify to the prosperity of the farmer and to the fact he is busy.

It is this farmer who chiefly interests the political managers and experts, professional and amateur.

How will he vote on Nov. 7, in the Senate race between Ohio's Robert A. Taft and the Democratic nominee, Joe Ferguson, a jaunty little man whom the State has regarded for a long time with the affection people give to jesters and those with a gift for the homely, ungrammatical phrase?

In 1948 the farmer was content with prices and stayed at home or voted for Harry Truman.

In 1950 prices still are high, but whether or not the farmer is going to remain at home on the first Tuesday in November is the question which has persons high in the councils of the GOP and Democratic parties biting their nails and moaning in their restless sleep.

Taft vs. Ferguson

The Ohio election, which is easily the most important and significant in the nation, is not, as others have observed, a contest between parties. There will be very few votes cast for Joe Ferguson. There will be many thousands cast against Robert Taft.

Here the man has become the issue.

If he is defeated the Democrats will have a much firmer control of the Congress than they have heretofore had, even though they gain not one extra seat.

Defeat of Taft will subdue the less resolute of those, Democratic and Republican, who have opposed any further extension of social legislation, and any relaxing of labor laws. It is these members who have broken party lines to help nullify on many occasions, galling to the administration, the numerical control it possesses.

With Taft out of the Senate the administration would pick up strength far beyond any it has before enjoyed.

If Taft wins he will attract to him still more following, from his own and the Democratic membership. If he defeats Joe Ferguson there will be more and more revolts against administration policy.

This election, more than any other in the several doubtful states, is the key to 1951 and 1952.

Labor

Labor has joined hands for the fight. Even the casual observer can see that this is probably the most expensive senatorial race in the history of American politics—and each campaign is spending somewhat in the manner of the legendary drunken sailor.

Labor's heavy mailing list has been going to farmers.

This, say the experts, has angered the farmers who feel that labor is trying to tell them how to vote. Labor's participation also has aroused the fear of county managers who fear the labor political experts may try to take over the party machinery in the event Ferguson is elected.

Barkley

So, it has come about that here the great emphasis has been on what the Democrats have done for the farmers. Alben W. Barkley, Vice President and a great fellow as well as an astute man in politics, made four speeches in Ohio and all of them were directed to the rural vote, even the one made in a hotel ballroom at Columbus.

I flew with him to Cincinnati in his special charter plane, and the politicians with him wagged worried heads about farmers as we flew over some of the best farm land in America.

Barkley reminded them that when the Republicans had the country corn was 15 cents a bushels, hogs and cattle three cents a pound, and wheat 25 cents.

He recalled that in 1946 the Republicans got control and cut parity prices, reduced REA and hamstrung the Commodity Credit Corporation.

Is the farmer listening? And if so, what does he think?

"There's more to be known of his harvesting.

"When Time, the thresher, unbinds the sheaves."

That will be Tuesday night, Nov. 7, and probably quite late.

Red Rockets Force Allies To Retreat

SEOUL, Thursday, Nov. 2—(AP). Rocket-firing Chinese and North Korean troops Thursday pressed attacks which have encircled an American regiment and forced other units to retreat in northwestern Korea.

Utilizing a new weapon—82-millimeter rockets—the revitalized Reds struck on the left flank of an American armored column which pushed up the west coast to within 15 air miles of the Manchurian border. This was a four-mile advance since Wednesday.

A U. S. First Army corps spokesman called the situation serious. The attacks put U. S. First Cavalry elements and four South Korean divisions — the First, Sixth, Seventh and Eighth — on the defensive. One thousand Reds on horseback were in the attacking forces.

One battalion of South Koreans has been surrounded for four days. Another group of regiment strength was cut off Wednesday night but broke free Thursday.

For the first time, a U. S. First corps spokesman admitted that "Chinese troops" were attacking in the northwest.

High American officers previously had acknowledged a Chinese Red regiment was in action in northeastern Korea. South Korean officers have insisted at least two Chinese Red divisions were in battle there.

The surrounded American regiment, a unit of the U. S. First Cavalry Division, was in the Unsan area on the east flank of a U. S. armored spearhead which drove west 13 miles Wednesday to within 15 air miles of the Manchurian border.

Other First Cavalry elements moved up to the aid of the encircled regiment.

The U. S. 24th Division's spearhead nearest the border moved ahead as Russian-made jet fighters planes made their debut in support of Red forces. Six jet planes fought inconclusively with slower, propeller - driven Mustangs, then broke off the engagement.

On the northwest, a column of the U. S. 24th Division thrust to Charyongwan, 15 air miles southeast of the border at its nearest point and 22 air miles southeast of Sinuiju.

Mrs. Collazo Sees Mate's Act as Just

NEW YORK, Nov. 1—(AP)—The wife of Oscar Collazo, 37-year-old Puerto Rican wounded in an attempt to assassinate President Truman, Wednesday described her husband as a Puerto Rican revolutionist with a festering desire for the island's independence.

She said she was not sorry he tried to kill President Truman. Mr. Truman could give Puerto Rico its independence, she said, but wouldn't.

"Why should I be sorry?" she told newsmen in her neat, three-room Bronx tenement apartment. "We are both members of the Nationalist Party."

The Nationalists were involved in a two-day Puerto Rican revolt that officially was pronounced quelled Wednesday. It cost 30 lives.

The Nationalists demand complete independence for Puerto Rico from the United States.

Mrs. Collazo, stout, 42-year-old woman, described her husband as "a smart man," a church-going metal polisher, who came here from Puerto Rico 25 years ago. He earned up to $71 a week, she said.

He dressed in his best clothes Tuesday, Mrs. Collazo said, and told her he was going back to Puerto Rico because "we must be free — we can no longer be slaves of the United States."

City detectives threw a guard around the Bronx home of Griselio Torresjola, Collazo's companion who was killed in the Washington gun battle. No one without authority was allowed near the building.

A neighbor said Torresola left a wife, a 19-year-old son and a 16-year-old daughter.

Mrs. Collazo, her three daughters and a 20-year-old man identified only as a friend of the family were taken to Secret Service headquarters here shortly about 7:15 p. m. EST.

She said she and her husband voted for Roosevelt and Truman but that they blamed Truman mainly for their nation's plight.

Also taken by Secret Service men were Mrs. Juanita Torresjola, 44, her son, William, 20, Jose Vega, a cousin, and Mrs. Nereida Varas, a visitor.

Mrs. Torresola's husband, Lorenzo, 46, was taken earlier from his grocery store in Harlem. What kin he might be to Griselio Torresola, the man shot down outside Blair House, authorities had still to determine.

Earlier in the day, 50 persons fled screaming from the Puerto Rican government labor office here when an unidentified man hurled two flaming gasoline-filled bottles into the room. The bottles failed to explode and no one was injured.

There was no indication whether the incident had any connection with the attempt on President Truman's life.

Administration Officer Wences-lao Sotomayor said, "I wouldn't say yes and I wouldn't say no," when asked whether he thought the incident might stem from the Nationalist revolt in Puerto Rico.

Mrs. Collazzo expressed strong admiration for Puerto Rican Nationalist Party President Albizu Campos. Neighbors said he lived in the same old-fashioned Bronx tenement as the Collazzos until he returned to Puerto Rico about five years ago.

The neighbors described Collazzo as a "quiet, meek man."

The Collazzo tenement, a five-story center of neighborhood attention after the news of the Washington shooting became known, is at 173 Brook Avenue, near 136th Street in the Bronx.

New York City harbors an estimated 200,000 Puerto Ricans in a teeming upper Manhattan and lower Bronx area. Most of the Puerto Rican section adjoins Negro Harlem and is in the 18th Congressional District, where Rep. Vito Marcantonio, Leftist American Labor Party Congressman, holds tight control. Collazzo does not live in the 18th District.

Mrs. Collazzo said her husband never was a Communist.

"He was only a member of the Nationalist Party," she told newsmen who jammed her small apartment.

"We voted for Roosevelt and Truman because they promised us independence," she went on, "and we did not get it. Roosevelt is dead so we can't blame him."

She said the Blair House shooting did not surprise her.

"I'm not surprised at anything these days—with revolution going on in Puerto Rico.

"For every $1,000,000 Truman gave us, he took back $2,000,000."

Newsmen asked the woman if she was sorry to hear of an attempt on Mr. Truman's life. She replied:

"No, they don't feel sorry when an attempt is made to kill President Campos."

Then she was asked if she thought her husband was right in trying to kill the President of the U. S.

"I don't say Oscar did right," Mrs. Collazzo began. Then she hesitated a moment, her voice dropped and, without finishing the sentence, she added:

"But according to him———."

Mrs. Collazzo said she was proud of her husband. She described how he worked as an English-Spanish translator, a typist and a stenographer as well as a polisher of pocketbook frames. He was described as five feet six inches tall, and slender.

"No, Oscar is no stupid man," she added.

In New Rochelle, N. Y., where Collazo worked until Tuesday as a polisher, Alfred Rand, one of the owners of the Gainer Corporation, said:

"He was a very good polisher, and had always been quiet and minded his own business. He was such a modest little fellow, he never gave us the slightest sus-

Shaw's Wit Stilled By Death at 94

By ROBERT MUSEL

AYOT ST. LAWRENCE, England, Thursday, Nov. 2—(U.P.)—George Bernard Shaw, one of the greatest playwrights of all time, died early Thursday at the age of 94.

The long and incredible drama of his life came to its close in his red brick Victorian mansion "Shaw's Corner" some seven weeks after he slipped on the pebbly border of his garden and fractured his thigh.

His housekeeper, Mrs. Alice Laden, came to the gate and told waiting newsmen "Shaw is dead."

She said death came at 4:59 a. m. (11:59 p. m. Wednesday EST).

Ironically it was not the fracture that caused his death. Astounding his doctors, Shaw's "brittle bones," as he called them, knit perfectly after an operation despite his great age.

But the shock of his fall stirred into fatal activity a latent kidney bladder infection that might otherwise have lain dormant for years.

Last Sept. 11, Shaw was taken from this tiny village—where he wrote many of the plays, essays and ideas that stirred the whole world—to Luton dustable hospital.

After an operation on his thigh he underwent two operations for his kidney bladder. With the infection and its discomfort went

SCENE OF ATTEMPTED ASSASSINATION—Dotted lines show approximate paths of approach of two Puerto Rican revolutionaries who attempted to assassinate President Truman at Blair House Wednesday. One gunman, Griselio Torresola, who was approaching from the west (1), was killed by police gunfire about 30 feet from the Blair House entrance. The wounded gunman, Oscar Collazo, approached from the east (2) and, without warning, opened fire on White House police.

Brewster Demands Congress Probe Puerto Rican Uprising

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1—(AP)—Sen. Brewster, Republican, Maine, Wednesday demanded an investigation by Congress of the Nationalist uprising in Puerto Rico and its reported relationship to the assassination attempt against President Truman.

"It is strange," Brewster told a reporter, "that this situation should have developed apparently without warning.

"Congress should be advised why such intelligence agencies as the FBI, the Secret Service and others did not apparently have a clue as to what was brewing.

"This situation appears to be fairly strong and fairly well organized. Certainly we should have been alerted that a strong movement toward open rebellion and conspiracy was brewing."

Shock over the fact of the attempt against the President and gratitude that it failed formed the central note of comment from leaders here and over the country.

Samples:

Harold E. Stassen, unsuccessful 1948 aspirant for the Republican presidential nomination and a sharp critic of the Administration, called the attack "a terrible thing." He added that he was pleased it failed.

Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York, whom Mr. Truman defeated in the 1948 general election, wired the President:

"Mrs. Dewey joins me in expressing our heartfelt gratitude that no harm came to you or to your family in the outrage committed at Blair House today."

Gov. Driscoll of New Jersey, called the attempt "a terrible catastrophe."

Gov. James E. Folsom of Alabama wired the President:

"We in Alabama are thankful that a great American and a great Democrat has bee nspared from those who would destroy our American syste mof government."

Rep. Vito Marcantonio, American Labor Party, New York, who is running for re-election in the 18th Congressional District which includes one of the main cores of the city's 200,000 Puerto Rican population, said he was "gratified" that the President is safe following the attempted assassination.

Louis St. Laurent told President Truman in a telegram that all of his friends in Canada were "vastly relieved" that he was unharmed in the attempted assassination.

In London, the British Press Association said Prime Minister Attlee sent a message to President Truman congratulating him on escaping the attempt on his life.

In Havana, Cuba's House of Representatives adopted unanimously a resolution congratulating President Truman on escaping the attempt on his life.

At Harrisburg, Ill., Vice President Barkley, told newsmen:

"It was a dastardly effort.

"I am certainly happy it didn't succeed and I know that the people are grateful it didn't happen," said Barkley. "I hope that speedy justice results."

At Joliet, Ill., National American Legion Commander Erle Cocke, Jr., telegraphed President Truman:

"All Americans . . . thank almighty God that today's dastardly attempt on your life failed.

"The shocking news of the assault should . . . alert all loyal Americans that there are among us traitors who would not only destroy the government by force and violence but who would resort to attempted murder of the Chief Executive as a means to that end.

"The American Legion believes all such persons should be jailed, and all organizations that by their teachings and propaganda encourage such attempts must be rooted out and destroyed."

Communists Disavow Link With Assassins

Special to The New York Times and The Atlanta Constitution

NEW YORK, Nov. 1 — The Communist Party disavowed any connection Wednesday with the attempt on President Truman's life and described it as a 1950 version of the "Reichstag fire frame-up" in Hitler Germany.

A statement issued by Gus Hall, the party's national secretary, in behalf of its national committee said:

"Like all our fellow Americans, we Communists are profoundly shocked by this afternoon's report on an attempt to enter Blair House, with the apparent purpose of taking President Truman's life.

"As is well known, the Communist Party condemns and rejects assassination and all acts of violence and terror. This can only be the act of terrorists, deranged men or agents provocateurs—a 1950 version of Van der Lubbe and the Reichstag fire frame-up.

"A reported attempt to link the Communist Party with this infamous crime suggests an effort at a pro-fascist provocation. History is full of instances in which similar acts of terrorism have been instigated or used for the purpose of cracking down on the labor and peace movements.

"We call on our fellow countrymen to block any attempts to utilize today's terrorist act as fuel for the flames of war hysteria and police-state repression, already endangering the bill of rights and world peace."

President Phones 'OK' to Margaret

PORTLAND, Me., Nov. 1—(U.P.)—President Truman called his daughter, Margaret, by long distance telephone shortly after Wednesday's shooting at Blair House in Washington to assure her that everything was all right.

"The President told his daughter that everything was okey and under control," said Kenneth Allen, Miss Truman's manager on her concert tour.

Allen said that Miss Truman didn't seem too upset by the news from Washington and would give her concert at City Hall Wednesday night as scheduled.

"Miss Truman has no comment and will have no comment to make on the matter," he said.

Unruffled by News of Dad, Margaret Sings in Maine

He Rates High in SEC

PORTLAND, Me., Nov. 1—(AP)—Unruffled by an attempt on her father's life, Margaret Truman sang to more than 2,000 Portlanders Wednesday night.

The President's daughter betrayed no signs of nervousness in her opening numbers—three songs by the Colonial composer Francis Hopkinson.

Her audience applauded enthusiastically and the smiling, 26-year-old soprano took a curtain call.

Miss Harriet O'Brien, who booked Miss Truman's recital, said there was "a very good house" in City Hall Auditorium.

Hundreds of people gathered in the lobby half an hour before concert time.

Some were reading newspaper accounts of the attempt on President Truman's life, and there was an undertone of comment on the gun battle in front of Blair House, in Washington.

Hale Indicted In Wife's Death

An employee of an Atlanta casket company was indicted by a DeKalb County Grand Jury Wednesday on charges that he murdered his wife. The wife's body was found badly slashed in her Moreland Ave., N. E., apartment Sept. 9.

The husband, listed as Minor Spurgeon Hale, was found in the apartment at the same time with his throat and wrists slashed.

Judge Frank Guess, of the DeKalb Superior Court, said the case would be tried at the December term of court.

Lonnie S. Lane, safe-driving champion for the Atlanta Transit Company, takes time off from mowing the grass to admire some small Chrysanthemums which his wife shows him. She keeps the Antioch Baptist Church well-supplied with flowers grown in the front and back yards of their lovely home.

Safe-Driving Champion Lonnie S. Lane Has Over 787,460 Accident-Free Miles

It's hard to imagine a man who has driven buses and trolleys the equivalent of 31 times around the world without an accident!

But that is the record held by Trolley Operator Lonnie S. Lane.

During the past 23 years, Mr. Lane has piloted buses and trolleys over practically all of the 26 routes in Atlanta's vast 244-mile-long transit system. He has covered more than 787,460 miles without a chargeable accident of any kind!

Mr. Lane lives in daily dread that some unthinking driver is going to "pull out on him" and mar his enviable record. "So I watch for them, block to block," he says, "And especially before sun up, because that's when it's most dangerous."

His wife, Ola, has played no small part in her husband's safety record, for as she says, "I send him off with a smile and in a good humor every day. It means a lot to start the day off right!"

In his time off during the 30 years he has been a part of Atlanta's transit system, Mr. Lane has built a number of houses, including his present lovely home at 1278 Grant Street, S. E. He built and sold the houses on either side of him and one down the street. He now owns two homes.

"Some folks ask why I don't give up driving and be a contractor," says Mr. Lane. "But I like the Company so well, and feel so much a part of it, I just wouldn't feel right doing anything else."

Besides building houses as a profitable hobby, Mr. Lane finds time to grow vegetables in his back yard and help his wife raise flowers. He is a member of Post 62 of the American Legion and the Lanes are active in the Antioch Baptist Church.

* * *

The Atlanta Transit Company is proud of Lonnie Lane and all of the 870 operators who make it possible to say, "THE SAFEST PLACE ON ATLANTA'S STREETS IS IN A BUS OR TROLLEY."

Last year 37 operators completed 10 or more years, and 592 others one or more years, without a chargeable accident.

No wonder Atlanta's transit system is tops in safety among all U. S. cities of comparable size.

Like a true champion, Lonnie Lane gives full credit to the men who maintain the trolleys and buses: "They keep them in top condition, so we can keep them 'GOING YOUR WAY EVERY DAY!' "

Eyewitness Describes Blair House Battle

By AL MUTO
International News Photos Photographer

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1—(INS)—I saw the attempt of two men to shoot their way into President Truman's house.

I jumped behind a granite pillar in front of the old State Department Building across the street from Blair House, to get out of the way of the firing.

I had just left the White House pressroom in a car to drive to Arlington Cemetery where the President was to make a speech.

As my car got to the corner near Blair House, I heard a whole flock of shots.

Somebody else in the car turned to me and said:

"It must be a Halloween prank."

I said:

"The hell it is, those are shots."

I jumped out of the car and got behind a pillar to get out of the way. This is what I saw:

A policeman was out in the middle of the street by the car tracks on his knee firing.

One man was in front of Blair House shooting as rapidly as he could.

Another man was shot down and fell behind a hedge on the sidewalk as I watched.

The patrolman on his knee was shot down and fell in the street.

Then the man in front of Blair House was shot down.

Then there were a lot of people running and hollering.

Then I started taking pictures as fast as I could.

Publicity Earns Cat Citation for Harold Martin's Chester, Jr.

Now they are giving out bronze medals for orneriness!

The most famed feline in Georgia, Harold Martin's cat, Chester, Jr., has just been presented a bronze award, accompanied by an impressive gold-lettered citation, by a well-known cat-food company.

Selected from the nation's cat population of 20,000,000 or more, Chester, Jr., the citation says, "deserves recognition because he is typically American—an individualist who is not impressed by pomp and circumstance. By his refusal to be regimented, he has brought laughter and occasional embarrassment into the Martin household. This award," the citation concludes, "is made in the hope that some expression of faith in him will cause Chester to adapt himself more fully to society, without losing his rakishly lovable character."

The vote came after a two-day debate in which Ben-Gurion replied to opposition critics by reviewing the achievements of the infant Israeli state.

Plane Blast Said Caused By Bomb

LONDON, Thursday, Nov. 2—(AP)—A bomb caused the explosion which severely damaged a loaded British European Airways plane over Northern France April 13, the ministry of Civil Aviation decided officially today.

The two-engined Viking returned safely to a London airport with its 28 passengers and a crew of four. The stewardess, was seriously injured in the blast. The rest of the crew and the passengers were unharmed.

First reports said the plane, on a trip from London to Paris, had been struck by lightning.

The ministry's report said the bomb exploded in the rear compartment of the plane. The interior near the tail was wrecked. The fusilage was blown open on both sides.

The report added that Scotland Yard is still investigating. The type of explosive used has not been determined, the ministry said.

Home Town To Increase Truman Guard

INDEPENDENCE, Mo., Nov. 1 (INS)—News of the attempted assassination of President Truman shocked residents in Independence, the Chief Executive's home town Wednesday.

Mayor Robert P. Weatherford, Jr., said:

"We will triple our precautions for the President's safety when he comes home Sunday."

President Truman is coming home to vote and is scheduled Monday to dedicate a replica of the Liberty Bell presented by a French town.

Mayor Weatherford said he will get several hundred plainclothesmen from the Kansas City police department and the State Highway Patrol to help Secret Service officers guard the President while he is in Independence.

Alabama Writ Issued for Taylor

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Nov. 1—(AP)—A fugitive warrant for the arrest of Sen. Glen Taylor, (Democrat, Idaho), was issued Wednesday, but there was no immediate indication of any further effort to bring him here.

He was arrested when he attempted to enter a Negro youth meeting May 1, 1948 through a door reserved for Negroes. At that time Taylor was a candidate for Vice-President on the Progressive ticket with Henry Wallace.

Taylor appealed to the U. S. Supreme Court, which declined to review the case. Alabama's Gov. James E. Folsom refused to seek Taylor's extradition.

Cuban Visas Ordered

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1—(AP)—Beginning Dec. 1 all native-born Cubans wanting to enter the United States temporarily must obtain visitors' visas. Heretofore, native born Cubans have been allowed to enter the United States without visas, which are entry permits.

A White House Guard Lies Critically Wounded.

THE ASSASSINATION

The area quickly was sealed off.

At distant corners the crowds gathered and rumors spread through them. A few said the President was wounded. Thousands gathered as the news spread over Washington by the almost hysterical voices of radio commentators breaking into programs.

There was calmness only at the Blair House and with the police. Four ambulances came within minutes. The three officers and the dead and wounded gunmen were removed.

An attendant in a white coat came out with a bucket of water and washed up the blood.

At a backdoor of the Blair House, the President of the United States walked out to the parked car, entered it, and with nervous secret service men behind him and on the running board, departed for Arlington. He was still calm.

At Arlington, he made a talk in appreciation of Sir John Dill and then drove back to the executive office at the White House, where hammers and drills work away at repairs.

In Portland, Maine, Margaret Truman was advised of the shooting and decided to go ahead with her concert. Her mother talked with her.

The blood was washed up. Street cars, but no other traffic, went on past Blair House.

Vice President Alben Barkley, on a political tour, heard the news in Harrisburg, Ill., and called it dastardly.

Blair House had bullet marks on it. Windows in the basement were broken.

Soon all was quiet. Only the curious crowds testified to something unusual in the life of the capital city.

In New York, the family of Oscar Collazo joined in the weeping and said they were not surprised. He had been a fanatic Nationalist.

Also in New York, there was evidence the plot was widespread. At about the time the two neatly dressed men had walked up and begun the gun battle, a wild-eyed man entered the office of the Puerto Rican government in New York and threw two Molotov cocktails, soft drink bottles filled with gasoline with a lighted wick in them, at the walls. There was a fire, but no explosion.

It was, in its tragic, fearful, murderous way, just a little reminded of the plot to kill Abraham Lincoln on April 14, 1865. John Wilkes Booth shot the President, but plots to kill the cabinet members failed. William Seward was stabbed. The plotters lost their nerve on the others.

Meanwhile, the wheels of law and of investigation had been grinding fiercely, but with skill.

The names were fixed. The early identification of Collazza was correct. There had been an error in the other and there still was no assurance. He had used two names. One was Griselio Torresola. The other was Lorenzo Angelini. They had stayed for two days at the Harris Hotel on Massachusetts Avenue, having come there from New York. They apparently had studied the street well and knew the President was scheduled to leave at about that hour for Arlington.

They approached the house from different directions.

Collazo came west. He was just a small man in a neat, pinstriped suit and a black hat. Officer Donald Birdzell was standing on the steps. He heard a click.

It was C ollazo cocking his gun.

Birdzell drew his own and both fired about the same time. Birdzell apparently made a sweeping motion with one hand. He knocked the gunman's arm down. Bullets smashed Birdzell's knee.

But, in times of great stress, when the adrenal glands pump out their mysterious solution, men do exceptional physical deeds. Some, with devotion to duty and with courage greater than the physical, do even more majestic things.

Birdzell did both.

His knees were shattered with bullets, but he ran into the street and kneeled down to fire again. He ran there to draw fire away from the Blair House and thereby protect the President. His job was to protect the President of the United States; he was doing it. In years to come when teachers offer up examples of devotion to duty, I hope they will include the story of Donald Birdzell.

In the sentry box police guard Joe Davidson and Secret Service agent Floyd Boring opened up on Collazzo and dropped him with a chest wound which was not too serious.

Then the west box officers there got Torresola, one bullet getting him between the eyes. He dropped into the shrubs.

It was over pretty quick, but for a time, of course, no one knew for sure. Even when the President departed, the officers didn't know if there were more would-be assassins lurking in the neighborhood.

Doctors worked on Collazo with loving care, though they cussed him. They did not want him to die. They wanted him to talk.

At first he would not. He would say nothing. Even while his wife and daughters were talking in New York, saying he had been a crazy man, and excited by the Communist-led uprising in Puerto Rico, he would not talk.

But, at last he did. He said that he had come to Washington with his friend to kill President Harry S. Truman.

The secret service has jurisdiction.

But the Federal Bureau of Investigation has joined in. There is belief the plot was widespread. The bomb incident in New York and the wild, desperate attempt to storm Blair House here, were not isolated.

Wednesday night, cabinet members are being advised to take care. Vice President Barkley has been urged to obtain extra guards. In New York, the FBI, secret service and police went to work to dig out the secret cell of Puerto Ricans responsible. The men who came were believed to have been chosen by lot. At least that was what Collazo's family thinks.

The President prepared to go ahead with two scheduled events. One was his press conference Thursday afternoon. The other was his flight to St. Louis and his political address there Saturday night. He was still calm; Charlie Ross, White House and Presidential secretary, declared the President was the calmest man connected with the event.

It was the first attempt on a President since Feb. 15, 1933, when Joseph Zangara, a crazed anarchist, tried to kill Franklin D. Roosevelt but missed him and in so doing slew Mayor Anton J. Cermak, of Chicago, in Miami, Fla. President James A. Garfield was killed in Washington in 1881. President McKinley was murdered in Buffalo in 1901.

As could be expected the story came out bit by bit, slowly and sketchily. A paper was found on one of the Puerto Ricans which said that "Gorseline would take care of the necessary funds for the supreme need."

The note was signed Campos. This is believed to be Pedro Campos, Puerto Rican Nationalist leader, who once served six years in the Federal Penitentiary at Atlanta, for trying to overthrow the the American Government. A Harvard graduate, he was one of the more radical and fanatic of the island's Nationalists.

Gorseline is a hunted man even though his identity is not yet known.

The shooting is expected to have repercussions in New York's Puerto Rican district where the friend of Communists and the Soviet, Cong. Marcantonio, is running for relection.

There was not, however, any direct Communist connection, though the Puerto Rican revolt in the islands is encouraged by them and undoubtedly financially aided. In New York the Communist Party almost stumbled over itself disclaiming any part in, or sympathy with, the shooting.

There was left only the activity at the offices where the Secret Service, the FBI, and police were at work.

The slow Indian Summer dusk came on. When it was dark Washington was still stuffy and uncomfortable from the heavy heat of the day which lingered in pavement and building. There was a smell of dust in the air. There was a dust haze which made the distant lights and the gleaming pencil of Washington Monument look as if one saw them through sheer silk.

There was more traffic. Cars bearing the curious had come in from Virginia and Maryland, because out in the suburbs and, probably in the hinterlands, there were wild rumors and tall stories of death.

Police whistles shrilled constantly like harried night birds as they directed the heavy traffic. The crowds surged toward Blair House, where the police kept back the curious.

The wet spot where the blood had been washed was dry.

The shrubbery where Torresola's body had fallen with a bullet through his foolish, hot, mad head, was again straight and neat. There were holes in the lower windows, but they were being repaired.

The crowds stood at the corners and in Jackson Way, where in the dark the statues of Andrew Jackson and Rochambeau was heavy and mysterious. Old Andy's hat is raised and a point of street light caught it.

It was as if he was raising his hat to the brave men who had done their job there before Blair House, even though the would-be murderers got the drop on them.

If so, it was merited. All who talked of the afternoon's madness spoke of them.

So, the night dragged on. Inside the Blair House they talked of it. The President worked on his speech. The routine went on.

Men began to speculate on the political effect. It likely will have none, save that it will create some sympathy for the President. It may not be translated into votes.

But, in many cities, there were grim men at work. In Puerto Rico, in Washington, in New York and other cities the hunt was on. These men, chosen by lot, had failed. The men who sent them are being hunted.

GUARDS FELLED IN BLAIR HOUSE BATTLE

Pvt. Don T. Birdzell, left; Pvt. Leslie Coffelt, who was fatally wounded; Pvt. Joseph H. Downs, right.

Avenging Injuries of Relatives Hinted in Torresola Crime Attempt

SAN JUAN, P. R., Nov. 1—(U.P.)—Griselio Torresola, would-be presidential assassin killed by Secret Service men, may have sought personal revenge for injuries suffered by his sister and brother here during this week's revolt, it was learned Wednesday night.

Police identified Torresola as a brother of Doris Torresola, personal secretary to National Party Leader Pedro Albizu Campos. She was wounded three times during the Nationalist party rebellion here on Monday and Tuesday. She now is in the hospital here.

3 Presidents Have Died At Hands of Assassins

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1—(AP)—Three American Presidents have been killed by assassins' bullets.

In addition to the fatal assaults on Presidents Lincoln, Garfield and McKinley, armed attacks were made on former President Theodore Roosevelt and on President-elect Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Abraham Lincoln was fatally wounded April 14, 1865, by actor John Wilkes Booth as he watched a performance at Ford's Theater in Washington. Booth was tracked down and slain by soldiers.

James A. Garfield was wounded in Washington July 2, 1881, by a disappointed office seeker named Charles J. Guiteau. Garfield lingered until Sept. 19, Guiteau was hanged.

William McKinley was wounded in Buffalo, N. Y., Sept. 6, 1901, by Leon Czolgosz. McKinley died Sept. 14, and the demented Czolgosz was executed.

Theodore Roosevelt was shot by a maniac in Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 14, 1912, while he was campaigning for a comeback to the presidency.

His wound was only slight and he went on with a scheduled speech before going to a hospital for treatment an hour and a half later.

His assailant, John Schrank, was sent to an asylum.

President-elect Franklin D. Roosevelt was the target of anarchist Guiseppi Zangara at Miami, Fla., Feb. 15, 1933. The bullet struck Mayor Anton J. Cermak of Chicago instead because a woman seized Zangara's arm as he fired. Cermak died March 6. Zangara was electrocuted.

Open Car Carrying Secret Service Men Follows Presidential Car

'MOST TERRIBLE EVENT'

GE Chief Sees Fight Before Blair House

(Charles E. Wilson, President of the General Electric Company, was an eyewitness to the attempted assassination of President Truman at the Blair House. The industrial executive lauded the brave work of the men guarding the President, but strongly urged more protection for the chief executive in the future. Wilson suggested, as one step, that the Secret Service and police who guard the President should be armed with heavier weapons than police revolvers.)

By CHARLES E. WILSON
President of the General Electric Company
(As Told to International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1—The attempt to assassinate President Truman was the most terrible thing, the most shocking event in the world. I never saw such excitement.

I was driving down Pennsylvania Avenue and my car stopped for a red light just beyond Blair House.

I heard a "pop" and then a real shot. I looked around and saw a policeman standing in the street, shooting at a man on the Blair House steps. The man on the steps was shot down and rolled to the foot of the steps.

Then there were many shots. Bullets flew everywhere. The policeman in the middle of the street finally fell down to his knees and then rolled to his face in the street.

I got out of the car then—amidst these shots—and walked to the curb. Bullets kept flying past me. I could hear them. They seemed to come from every direction.

It was kaleidoscopic. It's almost impossible to describe all you saw and heard. It happened so quickly.

At the time I saw the policeman shot down in the street, some other policemen came running out of 17th Street into Pennsylvania Avenue, with their guns drawn. But the whole tragic episode ended so quickly, there was nothing for these policemen to do. They went to the help of the policeman shot down in the street.

The two assassins were both shot down but one was shot down behind a hedge and I did not see who shot him. He was killed. The man shot down on the Blair House steps was only wounded.

From what I saw, I suppose the man behind the hedge shot the policeman in the street, because the man on the steps fired no more shots after he fell. It was some moments later when the policeman in the street fell.

The first shot that sounded like a "pop" to me must have been fired from an automatic. It did not sound like a revolver or pistol shot. The second shot sounded entirely different and like a shot. That's when I got out of the car and started toward Blair House.

This terrible affair shows the President is well protected. I hope he will be even more protected in the future. I think his guards perhaps should be armed with heavier weapons than mere revolvers, although in this case the police revolvers proved amply able to defend him.

I hope the President will take much greater precautions in the future and that those who guard him will see he has greater precautions.

Rebel Chief Besieged In Home

Cohort Slain Trying To Enter

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico, Nov. 1— (AP) —Pedro Albizu Campos, leader of the rebel Nationalist Party, has been under police siege in his home here for the past two days. Two letters from Campos were found on the body of one of the Nationalist revolutionaries who tried Wednesday to assassinate President Truman.

Tuesday night a Nationalist was shot to death trying to break through the police guard and enter the home of Albizu, a Harvard-educated revolutionary who has served a six-year term in the federal penitentiary at Atlanta, Ga., for insurrectionary activity.

The Nationalists set off a revolt here Monday that claimed more than 30 lives in a two-day period. It was marked by an assassination attempt on Governor Luis Munoz Marin similar to that made on President Truman. The revolt was smashed by Puerto Rican police and National Guardsmen. Rounded up were 118 Nationalist Party members. The outbreak was the most serious since the United States acquired Puerto Rico as a result of the Spanish-American War in 1898.

In one of the letters found on the body of Griselio Torresola, the revolutionary slain in Wednesday's assassination attempt, Campos told him: "If for any reason it should be necessary for you to assume the leadership of the movement in the United States, you will do so without hesitation of any kind."

Governor Munoz charged that the latest revolt was a "conspiracy against democracy helped by the Communists." He says it is "fanatical" in nature and has no real popular support.

Puerto Rican authorities are investigating how the Nationalists got their arms. Many were armed with German weapons, as were the Washington gunmen. The authorities believe they were brought into the country as World War II souvenirs.

The Nationalist Party has had a long record of violence. Leader Albizu has figured in rioting and disturbances that date back to 1931.

His party was founded in 1928. It says the United States has no legal claim to Puerto Rico. Estimates of the membership range from 400 to 1,500.

Last July 3 President Truman signed a bill giving Puerto Ricans authority to write and adopt their own constitution. This was hailed by Munoz as ushering in an era of "new relations with the United States."

On Saturday and Sunday Puerto Ricans will register for the voting on the new constitution.

The Nationalists have been opposing the new constitution in their rallies, and there was some speculation the revolt was staged to discourage registration. But Munoz said the registration will be held on schedule.

COLLAZO

picion that he was any kind of an agitator."

Tuesday was the first day in years Collazo missed work, Rand said.

Mrs. Collazo said she and her husband have been in the U. S. about 25 years and were married 11 years ago. It was a second marriage for both.

Collazo, she said, has a 15-year-old daughter, Carmen, by his first marriage. She has two daughters, Mrs. Lydia Marcado, 22, and Iris, 23, by her former husband.

Her present husband has been a Puerto Rican Nationalist for 20 years, Mrs. Collazo said, and she joined the party 18 years ago.

Describing her last sight of her husband, Mrs. Collazo said he told her "they need me." Then he said:

"Goodbye, darling, I am going to Puerto Rico. We must be free. We can no longer be slaves of the United States."

Mrs. Collazo said she gave him $100 "to buy passage for Puerto Rico." She expected him to fly, she added.

He put on his best clothes, she said, picked up his suitcase and was gone.

"I wanted to go along with him," the woman added, "but I have three children. I haven't heard from him since."

Mrs. Collazo said her husband "goes to church regularly."

Returning to the subject of Mr. Truman, Mrs. Collazo said: "If the President of the United States would give Puerto Rico liberty he could have done it a long time ago. Truman had something to do with the situation in Puerto Rico."

She added that if anyone tried to kill the President of the Puerto Rican Nationalists "I would kill him—even if he is the President of the United States."

Seven city police and eight Secret Service men arrived at Mrs. Collazo's tenement apartment in late afternoon, and searched the rooms. Acting Deputy Inspector Edward F. Byrnes said no weapons or any subversive objects were found.

Need of Funds Seen in Plot

The attempt to take the life of President Truman possibly was the result of financial difficulties within Puerto Rico's small Nationalist Party, according to an Atlantan recently returned from a year in the Territory.

He said Albizu Campos, the party's Harvard graduate leader, may have sanctioned the assassination try as a means to recruit new followers or possibly to satisfy party members with "one last stab" in the 48-hour insurrection. The party, he explained, has always been hard put financially.

Campos, he said, has a rabid racial hatred for white people of the United States that began when he was refused admittance to a white officers' club at the time he was an American Army officer in World War I. The hatred grew, he added, when 63-year-old Campos spent a six-year term in the Federal prison here for taking part in another terrorist plot.

GBI Joins Hunt For Missing Boy

Georgia Bureau of Investigation Wednesday joine din the search for 14-year-old Jerry Lee Gibby, of Palmetto, missing from his home since Sept. 21, GBI Asst. Director J. L. Dixon said.

The GBI official said there are "no clues" to the youth who disappeared after leaving home for school.

Socks on Hands Lead to Arrest

A 19-year-old Atlanta youth found wearing his socks on his hands was jailed for suspicion of attempted burglary, police said.

Jack Rice, of Pearl St., S. E., address, was taken into custody near a super market at 446 Boulevard, S. E., police reported.

SHAW

much of the indomitable will to live that carried Shaw through the earlier crises in his career.

Although he was never told, he knew even in the hospital that he could exist only as an invalid, unable to walk. He complained to visitors, among them American-born Lady Astor, that he would rather die than have to be carried about his beloved Hertfordshire countryside.

His pessimistic mental attitude as much as his physical condition alarmed his doctor, Thomas C. Probyn, a country practitioner whose skill and devotion won Shaw away from a dislike of medical men extending back some 85 years to his inauspicious childhood in his native Dublin.

Shaw lapsed into a coma early Wednesday morning. A Church of England rector read the church's "commendatory prayer for a sick person at the point of departure" later in the day for the one-time professed atheist.

Shaw started his playwriting career after gaining fame as a critic. His first production was a series of seven plays, labelled "Pleasant and Unpleasant." Then from his pen came the most amazing writing of modern times.

Among his best-known plays were "Man and Superman," "Major Barbara," "The Doctor's Dilemma," "Getting Married," "Androcles and the Lion," "Pygmalion," "Heartbreak House," "Back to Methuselah," "Saint Joan," "The Millionairess" and "Cymbeline Refinished."

Shaw was awarded the Nobel Prize for literature in 1925. He declined to accept the prize money, saying it was "like a lifebelt thrown to one who has already reached shore."

From his pen also came novels; books on politics, literature, war, music, religion and education; essays by the score and countless letters to newspapers. Thousands delighted in writing Shaw acid letters for, if they were keen enough, the writer could anticipate a classic reply from "GBS."

One Killed, 3 Injured In Auto Accidents

One person was killed and three others injured Wednesday in Georgia automobile accidents.

George Dozier, 17-year-old Negro, of Buena Vista, was killed when the auto in which he was riding crashed eight miles north of Buena Vista on a country road, the State Patrol said. The driver escaped injury.

In Atlanta, two were hurt when an auto went out of control and struck a utility pole on Glenwood Avenue near Chester Street. Sgt. Roy Etheridge and Ptl. P. E. Edwards said the driver, Joe G. Ramsey, 46, of 170 Chester Ave., S. E., a textile worker, was treated at Grady Hospital for chest injuries. Frank Pressley, of 952 Northern St., a passenger, sustained cuts and bruises about the head and hands.

Falling from a truck near her home, Betty Ann Hardaway, 2, of 473 Berkle St., S. W., was treated at Grady for bruises. Herbert R. Dale, 62, of 97 Milton Ave., S. E., a vegetable peddler, told police she climbed on the running board an dfell when he set the truck in motion.

In other accidents, Beverly Ann Herry, 7, of Hillside Cottages, fell from a swing. Easher Coleman, 10, of College Park, sustained head injuries when struck by a swing. William Patterson, 6-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Ivey Patterson, 927 Hampton St., N. W., slammed the hood of a car on his left hand.

Hoyt Torras, Jr., 16 months, of Decatur, was treated for a spider bite while Dan Glenn Weathers, 8-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Emory Weathers, 549 Luckie St., N. W., was bitten by a dog. Marshall Whitfield, 49, of 3251 Bachelor Ave., N. W., was bitten on the right hand by a cat.

Two children were admitted to Grady with suspected polio. They were listed as Brenda Ann Castellaw, 2, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ennis Castellaw, Route 1, Conley, and George William Blackwood, 13, of 1587 Gordon St., S. W.

Celler To Probe Newsprint P.rice

Special to The New York Times and The Atlanta Constitution

NEW YORK, Nov. 1—Rep. Emanuel Celler, Democrat of New York, who warned after newsprint price rises began on Oct. 12 that he would urge antitrust action against any American mill following the Canadians' price advance, declared Wednesday that he would move soon to reopen anti-monopoly hearings on newsprint pricing. Celler conducted hearings on this subject earlier this year as chairman of a House Judiciary subcommittee.

The Representative's declaration came on his being informed of the Goose River Mill's $6 increase. He said that while this mill is in the special category of being publisher-owned similar parallel pricing on newsprint has reached the point where further hearings are necessary. He predicted that other American mills would match the $6 increased announced last Thursday by International Paper Company, and added that the mill owners are "partners in monopoly."

4 Beer Places Face Loss Of Licenses

A clean-up or close-up ultimatum was issued to four beer and wine selling establishments on Georgia Avenue, S. W., Wednesday night by City Council's Police Committee.

The Committee also turned thumbs down on a proposed amendment to an ordinance passed last year requiring that all operators of buses and trackless trolleys submit to finger-printing.

The proposed amendment set out that the Police Committee and City Council would issue permits, and allowed drivers a tolerance of 25 percent in exceeding speed limits.

Establishments involved in the beer-wine controversy were Jimmy's Grill, 52 Georgia Ave.; Georgia Avenue Grill, 86 Georgia Ave.; A. & W. Wine and Beer Store, 68 Georgia Ave., and Bill and Joe's, 56 Georgia Ave. The Committee also recommended that the beer sale permit issued to William Thompson, 350 Mitchell St., S. W., be revoked after a hearing on charges that beer was sold on Sunday.

The Committee referred investigation of the other four places to the First Ward Council delegation, and instructed Police Chief Jenkins to discontinue allowing operators to hire five members of the department to police their premises.

More than 1,000 names were on the demand to close the establishments. The petition for continued operation had 2,080 signatures, Paul Carpenter, attorney representing the operators, said. Carpenter and Councilman James E. Jackson, attorney representing complainants, locked in oral tilts during the hearing. Rev. R. L. O'Brien, pastor of the Capitol Avenue Baptist Church, led the delegation fight to close, while Rev. Panos Constantinides, pastor of the Greek Orthodox Church, and Rev. Moses Coury, pastor of St. Elias Syrian Orthodox Church, pleaded for operators.

BISHER

Life With Wife, Three Beauties and a Dog

ATHENS, Nov. 1—October's farewell dusk was settling over Athens, and up and down Highland Avenue the lights came on spilling their warm glow out the unshaded windows. The breadwinners coming home were spun about at the front door by the scurry of the sprights wearing their Halloween horrors. They were on the way to join the mob and make like witches and goblins that night.

Behind the J. Wallace Butts homestead, hostilities had opened early. From across what a Texan would call a gulch, sounded the hoarse honk of a Halloween horn and the battlefield popping of firecrackers. The night was as noisy as a disturbed chicken yard.

Inside the Butts parlor, the man of the house was just in from "Terrible Tuesday on Ag Hill," the campus slogan for the day of heavy scrimmage. The Georgia football coach was a relaxed businessman home away from the office.

His lovely wife sat on his left. His two elder daughters flitted back and forth through the room, stopping off now and then to lean over the back of his chair and listen to him talk. Rip, the "United Nations" dog sprawled in the middle of the floor, his shiny nose posed between his paws. In the kitchen you could hear the faint rattling of the pots and pans as the maid went about dinner.

This was the portrait of a football coach at home, and it was a compliment to the profession. A man, his wife, his daughters, his dog, his servants, his home. There wasn't a sweatshirt, a shoulder pad or a cross-block in sight. Saturday was out of sight, out of mind.

Rip, the Dog With a Past

In time, a typewriter started up in the next room. This was Jean, the newspaperwoman of the family, turning out her product for the campus Red and Black. You couldn't have distinguished her work from Grantland Rice or Red Smith or Ernest Hemingway. Her machine sounded just like theirs.

Faye had alighted by her mother and stayed politely in the background until one of the guests began prying into Rip's family background.

Oh? he's just dog," Faye said right cutely.

"We paid two dollars for Rip," Coach Butts said. "I wish I could get as much out of all my investments."

"I can't remember when Rip wasn't around," said another guest.

"I don't guess you can," said Dan Magill, Jr., the publicity man. "I don't think Coach Butts ever lived in Athens without Rip. He's getting along in years. How old is he, Coach?"

"Rip's eleven years old, but he still eats like a growing dog."

The black-and-splotched grey Rip was paying no attention. He dozed on, aroused only by the burst of the fireworks across the way.

"Daddy!" This voice came from the next room, Jean's journalistic den. "When I use your name in a story, should I capitalize it?"

The coach was stumped. Modesty was at stake.

"I believe I'd arrange to leave it out," he finally said.

"Aw, Daddy."

"I always capitalized the name of the man who paid the bills at our house," said a guest.

"Yes, Jean, Daddy should be capitalized." Mrs. Butts closed the matter.

Curse the Night Air

"Say, where's Nancy?" asked the coach. This is the Butts' 12-year-old.

"She's spending the night out," Mrs. Butts said.

The neighborhood was jarred by another flurry of explosions. The kid in the house across the gulch had fired his load. You couldn't have heard a cuss word at ten paces. Old Rip stirred, lifted his low-slung chassis and lumbered to his mistress' chair. This Halloween stuff wasn't fit for a dog.

"Daddy, can I go out to the drive-in tonight?" Faye thought she'd get him while his nerves were still jangled.

"No," said the father. He was curt. This was the stern disciplinarian who strides the sidelines and directs the course of a major football unit, you thought. And then you saw the twinkle in his eyes and the faint creases around his mouth that grew into a smile as the coy Faye came over and ran her fingers through his hair.

The typing ceased in the next room. The case was closed with a clatter and Jean stuck her head through the door, said good-by and went out, typewriter in hand.

"Where's she going?" asked Coach Butts.

"Down to the Red and Black office—with my typewriter," Faye said.

"You girls are out too much at night. You know this night air isn't good for you. Look what it's done to the football team. Night was meant for sleeping. . . ."

So the guests went out into the night and home to sleep.

Bulldog Trippi Leads SEC All-Time Greats

Nothing is lacking in speed, size, brains and brawn in The Associated Press all-time Southeastern Conference football team.

The all-timers who were selected by 58 football writers and announcers from a fan-picked all-star squad, average 197 pounds and a fraction over six feet in height.

They include many of the fastest and smartest players in the Deep South since 1933, the first season present Southeastern teams operated in their own conference and not as part of the Southern Conference. Players before 1933 were ineligible for all-time voting.

The Tennessee Vols of Coach Bob Neyland—along with Alabama the dominating powers of the 1930's—won three positions to lead all colleges. Louisiana State and Georgia placed two men each. Alabama, Mississippi, Vanderbilt and Georgia Tech rounded out the first team with a star apiece.

Here are the 11 greatest which writers and announcers selected from a 35-player squad:

Ends: Don Hutson, of Alabama, and Gaynell Tinsley, of Louisiana State.

Tackles: Frank (Bruiser) Kinard of Mississippi, and Dick Huffman, of Tennessee.

Guards: Bob Suffridge, of Tennessee, and Bill Healy, of Georgia Tech.

Center: Carl Hinkle, of Vanderbilt.

Backs: Charlie Trippi and Frankie Sinkwich, of Georgia; Beattie Feathers, of Tennessee, and Steve Van Buren, of Louisiana State.

Three hundred football fans throughout the South took part in the squad selection in September. They overwhelmingly voted for Trippi as the best among all the stars. Writers followed their lead by naming Georgia's great halfback the No. 1 player.

For accumulating the most votes Trippi became captain of the all-stars. Don Hutson, star at Alabama in the mid-thirties who developed into the generally accepted greatest end in professional football, was second to Trippi. Suffridge was third in balloting, lagging only two votes back of Hutson.

The first team is almost evenly

Mathews, Cone Out Saturday

By MCNEIL HOWARD

CLEMSON, Nov. 1—Clemson College's homecoming this weekend will be highlighted Saturday afternoon when Clemson's undefeated Tigers meet Duquesne's oft-beaten Dukes at 2 p. m. in the Clemson Memorial Stadium.

The Frank Howard-coached Tigers will be gunning for their fifth win in six starts. The only mark on the Tigers' record this year is a 14-14 tie with the University of South Carolina. They knocked the Wake Forest Deacons from the ranks of the undefeated last week-end with a hard-earned 13-12 victory.

This win proved to be the costliest in Clemson football history. All-Southern fullback Fred Cone and veteran wingback Ray Mathews both were carried from the field less than four minutes after the opening kick-off. Mathews received three broken ribs and Cone suffered a serious cartilage separation.

Fullback Jim Shirley and wingback Frank Kennedy, both sophomores, stepped into their shoes and, along with ace tailback Jackie Calvert, led the Tigers in the triumph.

Clemson received another blow Wednesday when first-string Tackle Bob Patton twisted a knee in practice. Trainers said the injury may keep him out of the Duquesne game.

Home for Weekend

NEW YORK, Nov. 1—(AP)—When Cornell, from upstate New York, plays Columbia here Saturday, it will be like old home week for a good part of the Big Red's squad. Eighteen of the Cornell players come from the metropolitan area.

3 Aces Trumped By Palmer's 135

PINEHURST, N. C., Nov. 1—(UP)—Lean Johnny Palmer of Badin, N. C., clung to a slim one-stroke lead in the 48th annual North and South Open golf tournament Wednesday with a blazing second round which saw three of his opponents break all tournament records with three holes in one.

Palmer, who set a competitive course record on the 6,952-yard Pinehurst Country Club layout Tuesday, came home with a two-under-par 70 Wednesday to edge Jim Ferrier of San Francisco by one stroke at 135 for two rounds.

Palmer's brilliant play took a back seat, however, as Mike Turnesa, Steve Doctor and Harry Dee each came up with holes in one, a record for any major golf tournament.

In the 47 year-history of the North and South Open, there never had been a hole in one. Then in four unbelievable hours Wednesday, three plopped in.

Turnesa, White Plains, N. Y., pro, sank his ace with a five-iron on the 156-yard ninth hole. It was the fourth ace of his career.

Doctor did the trick on the same par—three ninth with a seven iron, but then blew up to a 78 for the round. He was eliminated from the tournament.

Dee of Mamaroneck, N. Y., slammed a four-iron shot on the 186-yard 17th hole. The ball hit the green, bounced and dribbled in. It was his second ace and the first he had made in tournament competition.

Palmer's two-under-par card Wednesday was a far cry from his fiery 65 in the opening round when a record 35 men came in below par.

"I played just as well today as I did yesterday," the dark-haired pro said, "but the putts weren't sinking as well."

Palmer birdied the third and eighth holes to turn two under. Then he birdied the 472 yard 16th. But on the 18th Palmer was trapped off the tee and took a bogie five, his first bogie of the tournament.

Rerrier coupled a 35-34—69 with Tuesday's 67 to climb out of a five-way tie for second and take the No. 2 position alone. Defending Champion Sammy Snead went into a four-way tie for fourth at the midway mark of the 72-hole tournament with 139.

THE WILLIAMSON WAY

Georgia Rated Favorite By Smallest of Margins

By PAUL B. WILLIAMSON

Southern Methodist and Texas clash Saturday in a Southwest Conference game which may decide the Cotton Bowl representative. The touchdown-minded Mustangs should edge the Longhorns by a touchdown in the top attraction of the day.

The system picks Georgia to beat Alabama, but there is a strong possibility that the Crimson Tide will upset the dope. Duke should handle Georgia Tech.

Army will roll over Penn and California should remain in the unbeaten ranks with at least a touchdown triumph over Washington, possibly more. Tennessee figures to take North Carolina in one of the South's big games.

Luke Appling Accepts Post as Memphis Pilot

Signing Closes 21-Year Career As Chicago White Sox Shortstop

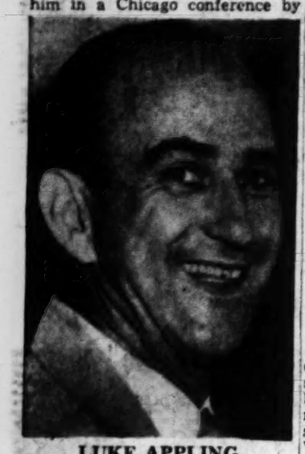
By FURMAN BISHER

Luke Appling accepted terms in a telephone conversation with Club President Fred L. Longinotti Wednesday afternoon to manage the Memphis Chicks in 1951. Thus, the durable Georgian wrote off the longest active major league career in existence after 21 years in the hire of the Chicago White Sox.

Appling remains a member of the White Sox organization, however. Memphis is the Southern Association farm for the American League club with whom Appling set an all-time record for shortstop endurance.

"I'm tickled to death," Appling told The Constitution. "Memphis is a good baseball town, I'm in a league close to home and I feel that this is the best thing to do."

Appling had spent more than a week considering the offer made him in a Chicago conference by



LUKE APPLING
New Chickasaw Chief

Charles A. Comiskey, president of the White Sox. Comiskey offered Appling the Memphis post after suggesting that he retire as a player.

"That was the big question in my mind," Appling said. "It's tough to give up playing when you can still hold up a glove."

Appling will be a bench manager at Memphis, he said. He will go to Memphis for a formal signing ceremony within two or three weeks.

"Ole Aches And Pains" will succeed Al Todd, who resigned last month after two seasons with the Chicks. Todd's club finished seventh in '49 and fourth last season. He announced that he planned to enter another organization.

This will renew Appling's acquaintance with the Southern Association after a 20-year gap. He broke in with the Crackers directly out of Oglethorpe University in 1930 and was sold to the White Sox at the end of the season. He never played in another major league uniform, though he did perform in the dungarees of the Army in 1944-45.

During the close of the 1949 season, Appling broke Rabbit Maranville's long standing record for games played at shortstop. When he wound up the 1950 season, he had 2,422 major leagues on his record.

Appling led American League batters in 1936 with .388 and in 1943 with .328. He posted a lifetime batting average of around .310.

The Appling family, Luke, wife and three children live on Copeland Road, out near Buckhead. He returned to the home last week after a barnstorming tour with a group of major league players.

Luke is 41 years old, reaches his 42nd birthday next April 2. He was born in High Point, N. C.

Tech Faces Sixth Passing Genius

By JACK JACKSON

As fearful as the passing records of Duke's Billy Cox appear, he can bode no new evil for Georgia Tech's Yellow Jackets.

The year 1950 at Tech seems to have been devoted to trying to stop the cream of the Nation's passing crop. At least that is the way it turned out.

First came not one, but three, all in one big dose—Southern Methodist. The Jackets were called upon to stop folks like Kyle Rote, Fred Benners and Rusty Russell, all of whom can throw a mean football. Rote was the big difference, although Tech pass defense had a busy night.

Next overly talented aerialist was Florida's sensational sophomore, Haywood Sullivan. Tech won that one, but only by the slimmest edge. Then came Parilli, the Babe, of Kentucky, and the Jackets fell again.

Now here is Billy Cox, a man who has thrown 136, completed 79 and gained 1,047 yards in the process. Cox ranks with the best of them as his 58 per cent average attests. But he won't come as any surprise to Bobby Dodd's men. They've been tested by fire five times already.

Against the Duke thrower, the Jackets will send a combine which has allowed opponents to complete .491 percent of their passes to date. In that crew will be Bob McCoy, newcomer Bobby Morehead, Peden Templeton, Powell Sheffer and a couple of others. They have another big job ahead.

Meanwhile, up Durham way, a junior end is going about his work this week with some mighty pleasant memories roaming through his head.

He is Blaine Earon, the guy who was made famous here last year in this same Tech-Duke game.

An unheralded soph at the time, Earon had such a good day against the Jackets that he was named the Associated Press Lineman of the Week. He was highly instrumental in the Devils' 19-7 victory and has been playing fine defensive ball ever since.

One of the stars in a losing cause last week against Maryland, Earon must be hoping for just as good a day against Tech as he had last time. That would be sufficient.

JACKET NOTES—Light work was the order of the day Wednesday with dummy scrimmage heading the bill. . . . Freshman linemen harrassed Jacket passers in the drill. . . . The team leaves Thursday night by train arriving in Durham Friday morning. . . . Hal Miller, the big tackle, was in pads again, while John Weigle and Sid Williams, both ends, were in sweats. Chances are that all will be able to play Saturday. . . . Robby Robinson boomed several long punts downfield. He averaged better than 52 yards against Kentucky.

Quarters Backers; Wade Seeks Safety

UNIVERSITY, Ala., Nov. 1—An occasional use of double quarterbacks on the offense is not an oddity now but Alabama's use of two ball handlers on the defense is a new style—but a successful one.

Coach Red Drew installed quarterbacks Bobby Wilson and Jack Brown at the halfback spots against Mississippi State and their play was one of the highlights of the Alabama victory.

The two quarterbacks have continued to impress with their defensive skill in this week's scrimmage so Georgia fans can look for this combination to be in operation when the Bulldogs are moving forward. Brown has always ranked as one of the Tide's best pass defenders and surest tacklers. His absence was keenly felt especially in the loss to Vandy, but a leg injury which kept him sidelined for the Tide's first five games has apparently mended and he's back to stay.

Sophomore Wilson stepped out this year labeled as the greatest punter to hit the Capstone since the days of Johnny Cain. So far the South Alabama youngster has had to step aside as offensive quarterback. Butch Avinger does the punting at almost a 44-yard average.

But in his new role on defense the good looking, 6-1, 195 pounder, has taken on new importance on the Tide squad.

In a closed practice Wednesday, Alabama worked until well after dark perfecting its pass defenses against the improving Georgia aerial game.

DURHAM, N. C., Nov. 1—Col. Wallace Wade launched an all-out search for a new safetyman Wednesday.

With the home-coming clash against Georgia Tech just around the corner, the veteran Duke football coach was faced with the task of grooming a man to handle the all-important safety duties.

George Grune, one of Duke's finest safetymen in years, was released from Duke Hospital on crutches Wednesday, and he's given little or no chance to dress Saturday.

Tom Powers, offensive wingback who moved over into Grune's shoes and played the defensive safety position in the second half of the Maryland game, missed his third straight day of practice.

Powers witnessed Wednesday's drill in street clothes, but coaches believe he will be available for at least part-time duty against Tech.

Powers has a bruised leg, while Grune suffered a badly pulled leg muscle in the Maryland game.

With these two key players absent from practice Coach Wade tried a half-dozen boys at the safety post.

Three sophomores, Dick Sommers, Charlie Smith and Piney Field, showed the best form. All are slick runners who haven't been given the opportunity to play more than a few minutes all season long. Bob Bickel, junior halfback, also may get a chance at this spot.

Coach Wade worked his squad lightly. "We can't take any chances on anyone getting hurt," he said.

TIME ON THEIR HANDS—In the fall a ball player's fancy lightly turns from thoughts of baseball. In the case of Detroit's Dizzy Trout, it's hunting, with four mallards proof of his ability. And in the case of Yankee Phil Rizzuto (right, kneeling) and Dodger Gene Hermanski, it's golf.

Pacific Coast League May Get Special Baseball Classification

CINCINNATI, Nov. 1—(AP)—The Pacific Coast League appears to be creeping up on the major loop status it has sought for years. There is a good possibility that the triple-A circuit will be classed 4-A, highest ever reached by a minor league, before the 1951 campaign rolls around.

Commissioner A. B. (Happy) Chandler, following a hearing on the Coast League's plea to be excused from all angles of baseball's annual draft, said Wednesday:

"We've decided to give relief to the Coast League as the facts justify. Such relief may result in higher classification, possibly 4-A, under the National Association structure."

Chandler said the Coast League had peculiar problems in that seven of its eight clubs are independently owned, it has a longer playing season, and it outdraws the other triple-A leagues at the gate.

The Commissioner said a complete and immediate survey would be made of all angles of the Coast League operation before the committee's recommendation is placed before the major and minor league meetings in St. Petersburg, Fla., in December.

"We are asking the same data of the International League and American Association, and there's a possibility their classification will be raised if they desire, and can qualify," Chandler said.

Chandler, declined to go into what relief from the draft would e given the Coast League should its status be elevated, but Del Webb of the New York Yankees and Branch Rickey, late of the Brooklyn Dodgers, two committee members, said:

"It wouldn't be out of line to infer that the draft price for Coast League players might be raised, or that the league might be able to keep a player a bit longer before he's eligible for draft."

Via the grapevine it was learned one spokesman favored a $25,000 draft price for Coast League-Players, in place of the current $10,000. Another proposal was that the Coast draft be put on a voluntary basis, with a player being able to excuse himself from the draft when he signs his contract.

Presidents Bruce Dudley, of the American Association, and Frank J. Shaughnessy, of the International League, sat in as observers.

Baseball's major-minor executive council had no luck in solving the Big League broadcast problem which the minors blame for a good share of an 8,000,000 attendance drop last year.

Presidents Charles Hurth, of the Southern Association, and Herman White, of the Northern League, blamed "saturation of the airways" for much of the drop at the gate, but neither had a solution. The matter comes up at the Florida Major-Minor meetings.

Happy Slips, Says Rickey Has Job

CINCINNATI, Nov. 1—(AP)—Baseball Commissioner A. B. (Happy) Chandler says Branch Rickey has a new job—but Branch Rickey says Branch Rickey doesn't have a job.

It's all a bit confusing, as things concerning the Mahatma sometimes are, but here's what happened:

Chandler, discussing coast league affairs Wednesday, quoted Rickey as saying:

"We of the major league teams . . ."

A newsman stopped him with: "What major league team? Does Rickey have a job?"

The commissioner replied, with a laugh:

"Yes, and I know where he's going. But I can't tell you."

Revenge-Minded UNC Engages Vols

Condensed From Constitution Wire Reports

North Carolina and Carl Snavely will have revenge on their minds when they move into Knoxville Saturday to meet the University of Tennessee.

Last Fall, the Vols handed the Tarheels a 35-6 lacing, one of the largest scores in the long history of the series. Too, General Bob Neyland holds an 8-3 all-time record over Carolina elevens, and in the over-all series, Tennessee leads 10-8.

"As long as we're winning," Vandy's Bill Edwards said, "I plan to keep the same horses running." He was announcing that there would be no change in the Commodores' starting lineup Friday night in Chattanooga.

Kentucky is in good physical condition, but Bear Bryant says his charges haven't been "aggressive enough" this week. The Wildcats meet Florida Saturday, and although it'll be their sixth home appearance, it will mark their initial afternoon game in Lexington.

Ebert Van Buren, still ailing, took it easy at Baton Rouge, but is expected to be in the LSU lineup against Ole Miss Saturday.

SEC Fine Called 'Injustice'; Loquacious Larry Hits Racing

Condensed From Constitution Wire Reports

SEC Commissioner Bernie Moore did Ole Miss "a great injustice" in suspending five players and fining the school $2,500, says Athletic Director Tab Smith.

A friend of the school, said Smith, hired the five to work for him on a spare time basis. "They made the same salaries as any other boy working for Mr. Pidgeon (the friend) and there was absolutely no violation of the rules in that," Smith continued.

Mr. Moore thought otherwise, and Ole Miss was fined, along with LSU, Tulane, and the University of Georgia, for "illegal recruiting."

The Los Angeles Rams are moving at a pace which may produce a new National Football League passing record. Ram Passers Norman Van Brocklin and Bob Waterfield have totaled 2,208 yards, an average of 315 yards per game. The old record, made by the Washington Redskins in 1947, is 278 yards. The Rams' 3,121 yards of total offense tops the league, averaging 408 yards per game.

Blond Donn Moomaw, UCLA's belting linebacker, has been named the AP's Lineman of the Week. He is listed as a center, but plays entirely on defense, switched from end this year. "Donn has done an outstanding job in every game this year," said Coach Red Sanders.

Davidson's passing sensation, Auburn Lambeth, is expected to be back in harness for the Wildcat game with VMI in Charlotte Saturday. Lambeth needs 17 more pass completions to move into the select 200 group.

Larry MacPhail, former president of the New York Yankees baseball team, leveled three charges against racing at a testimonial for a new Kentucky racing commissioner Tuesday. Said MacPhail: too much politics in commission appointments; too much underworld involvement, and a Thoroughbred Racing Association which seems to look solely for trainers doping horses.

Willie Pep and Sandy Saddler tentatively have agreed to a fourth match on Feb. 16 if little Willie is able to work soon. Pep lost his featherweight title to Saddler on Sept. 8 when he dislocated his left shoulder and had to leave in the eight round.

Charlie Trippi switched from left half to quarterback for the Chicago Bears for the first time Wednesday. The switch was insurance for the pro ball club since regulars Jim Hardy and Frank Tripucka are injured."

Most of the leading touring professionals now competing in the North and South Open Tournement at Pinehurst, N. C., are expected to move to Savannah next week. The $10,000 Savannah Open begins Nov. 9 under sponsorship of the PGA and the Savannah Kiwanis Club.

No Second Bikini: Only Feud Of Hogansville, West Point

Hogansville's battle with West Point Friday at Hogansville will culminate three months of friendly feuding in addition to clearing the Region 3-B title picture.

Both are undefeated and, since the season's outset, fans have been looking forward to the showdown. Sports pages in the Valley and in LaGrange (near Hogansville) have carried on running battles about the relative strength of the two.

Just how folks in Hogansville feel is summed up in the following telegram addressed to Furman Bisher, The Constitution's Sports Editor:

"Please warn all Atlanta seismograph observers violent disturbance about 50 miles Southwest Friday night at 8 p. m. is not second Bikini. Hogansville's hard-hitting Green Wave, coached by Jimmy Southard, is unwilling to serve as victim No. 29 for West Point's Red Devils. GEORGIA'S ART DECARLO
Is All-Southeastern in the Cards?

Bulldogs, Tide Pit Brawny Linebackers

By GENE ASHER

ATHENS, Nov. 1—The Georgia-Alabama clash in Birmingham Saturday well might evolve into a "battle of the line backers," with the Bulldogs' Art De Carlo and Derwent Langley and the Tide's Pat O'Sullivan all ranking among the most able in the Southeastern Conference.

O'Sullivan, who has played defense for three seasons, and De Carlo, a sophomore, are leading candidates for All-SEC center.

Play of Georgia's inexperienced sophomores has been remarkable. Before Fall practice started, Bulldog coaches were bemoaning the loss of Al Bodine and Joe Jackura, last year's sure-tackling line backers.

"We do not have any players who can offset their loss," coaches chorused.

Now they are boasting that De Carlo and Langley are the best seen here since Clyde Earhardt and Bill Godwin of the 1943 Rose Bowl champions.

Coach Wallace Butts did not expect De Carlo and Langley to be ready for conference competition until midseason, but following the Maryland game, he said, "Our soph line backers really came through, and Langley was great all afternoon."

Thus far, De Carlo has recovered eight fumbles, one of which made possible Georgia's first score against Mississippi State and provided the impetus for a 27-0 triumph. Langley intercepted a pass against Boston College and has been tackling with regularity.

Butts says, "They are playing great ball, showing lots of competitive spirit and improving every game."

The Associated Press has mentioned De Carlo on its team of the week four times and Langley twice. Langley and Kentucky's Bill Leskovar were the only fullbacks selected last week.

Backfield Coach Bill Hartman says, "Langley plays offense as well as defense. He's a hard runner and a good blocker."

Derwent won fame in high school for his offensive play. The native Augustan was chosen All-GIAA and All-Southern at Richmond Academy in 1947.

De Carlo, a third-stringer for last year's freshman team, received his chance this season when Center Moe McClung was injured against Maryland. He's been a standout ever since.

A pre-med student whose facial characteristics closely resemble those of comedian Jerry Lewis, De Carlo is conscientious about his plans for the future. However, he and Langley are presently concentrating on halting Alabama's split-T offense. If they succeed, both may be rewarded with an all-conference berth.

Halfback Lauren Hargrove and guard Ed Greenway were not among the 45 players named for the Alabama trip. They are both suffering with leg injuries. But Captain Mike Merola has returned and is expected to see action at defensive end.

The team leaves here Friday morning via Seaboard Air Line railway.

SHORT NOTES—The Bulldogs stressed passing and defense in Wednesday's light drills. Cook and Prosperi were connecting frequently and Jackie Roberts and John Carson were favorite receivers. . .

stars of 1949 also made the squad—Travis Tidwell, of Auburn, made the second string backfield and Eddie Price, Tulane back, won third string honors.

Hutson played with Green Bay; Tinsley and Trippi with the Chicago Cardinals; Huffman with the Los Angeles Rams; Kinard with the Brooklyn Dodgers and New York Yankees; Sinkwich with the Detroit Lions and Van Buren with the Philadelphia Eagles.

Golden Devils Tiger Frosh

By BILL BECKWITH

AUBURN, Ala., Nov. 1—Auburn displayed an aerial attack Wednesday in preparation for Mississippi State Saturday.

Allan Parks was the passing man of the day, throwing touchdown passes to Johnny Wallis, Bobby Jordan and Lee Hayley. Bill Tucker and sophomore Dudley Spence were in the act. They kept the freshman line on its toes with their smashes through the center of the line.

Left half Bobby Golden used his diminutive 155-pounds to an advantage as he demonstrated what he can do when he is not injury ridden. Golden blocked well and caught several passes for long gains.

Returning to action with Golden was guard Jack Lambert, who has been handicapped the entire season with a knee injury. Lambert, a two-letter man, bolstered the guard position since Jim Brooks and Frank Jones are among those on the casulty list.

O'Keefe and Bass Clash for Top Rung

By CHARLIE ROBERTS

The night for that show-down hoe down for the City League football leadership is at hand. O'Keefe and Bass high elevens, with loop records as pure as driven snow, will throw burly lines and diversified attacks at each other as lights from giraffe-necked Grady Stadium towers emblazon the field of battle

Thursday is the night, eight o'clock the time, 11,000 the expected attendance for the all-important skirmish.

Sylvan and Smith will be throwing blocks and tackles at the same time over at Cheney Stadium, and partisan folks in East Point and College Park will be yelling their lungs out at College Park where Bill Badgett's Rams and Russell's Wildcats renew an old neighborhood rivalry, but the spotlight will glare more fiercely at Grady.

Roberts' Picks

(Team Records in Parenthesis)

WINNER	LOSER
O'Keefe (6-1-0)	Bass (6-1-0)
Smith (1-6-0)	Sylvan (2-5-1)
College Park (4-2-0)	Hapeville (4-3-0)

Season Record—Won 117, Lost 19, Pct. .860. Last week—Won 16, Lost 4, Pct. .800.

Ticket sales for the game that may decide the Region 3-AA championship have been so brisk that the pasteboards will remain on sale all day at Reeder & McGaughey's, Tom Slate's, Parks-Chambers and all city schools.

Both teams take to Grady sod with over-all records of 6-1 and 4-0 league marks. The winner will move into the favorite's role. The loser will fall into a second-place tie with the winner of Friday night's Grady-Murphy melee.

Coach Hank Langston's team has the more impressive record on offense and defense. The Irish have amassed 136 points to 52 for six foes. The Wavers, featuring the loop's two top scorers in Tom Sanson (60 points) and Tollie Williamson (30), have bashed for 114 points and had 72 scored against them. O'Keefe has tallied 104 points to 18 for four region opponents, the same quartet that Bass has found vulnerable for 60 counters. The four pushed goalwise for 40 points.

Jimmy Nisewonger, Frank Simpson, Jimmy Smith, the two Bobby's — McCauley and Garrard—and Joe Bellman spark the point-minded O'Keefe offense, with Nisewonger doing the throwing. Don Howard, 220-pound tackle whose hard tackle gave the Irish a safety against Sylvan, heads a heavy, rugged line.

Bass is powered by a "Big Four" backfield of Sanson, Williamson and the Hendricks brothers, Sonny and Bobby. Sonny punts and passes.

Coach Swede Phillips exhibits the closest thing to a two-platoon system operating in these parts. A burly strictly defensive unit includes Tom Chilton, rugged 185-pound tackle who has been a standout all year, Cotton McMullen, Doyle Pair, Charlie Burton, Clyde Baxter, Lawrence Reese, Al Hernandes and George Carter.

Butts, Dodd 'Touch Ball' Bowl Pilots

By BERT PRATHER

Atlanta's touch football enthusiasts are planning to make their second annual Touch Bowl game, scheduled for Dec. 9 at Grady Stadium, a real celebrity parade.

Thad Horton, sports director for WSB and president of the Atlanta Sports Council, announced Wednesday that Coaches Wally Butts of Georgia, and Bobby Dodd of Georgia Tech, have agreed to serve as coaches for the two 15-man squads.

Invitations have been sent to 30 leading sports figures, past and present, to compete in the contest. Horton, serving as general chairman of the game, said that he cannot reveal names of squadsmen as yet but that the performers will be leading figures in sports and some from other fields.

The game is sponsored by the Atlanta Sports Council and the Kiwanis Club. All proceeds will be turned over to the Kiwanis Club's underprivileged children's fund.

Bert Parks Sparkles In Own TV Premiere

By PAUL JONES

NEW YORK, Nov. 1—Bert Parks' name took its place among the bright lights of Broadway Wednesday, when the Atlanta radio and TV personality introduced his own teevee show, a grand 30 minutes of variety entertainment to NBC audiences.

It was a big day for the boy, who 18 years ago won a talent contest on the stage of the Capitol Theater in Atlanta and who later graduated from Atlanta radio to the big-time networks here. For, while Parks has presided over such shows as Stop the Music, Break the Bank and others, he had not until Wednesday been a star in his own right.

BIG MOMENT
Bert Parks and Wife

The handsome Atlanta singing star got his new production off to such a fast start that it already has been tabbed the briefest 30 minutes in teevee.

Parks each Monday, Wednesday and Friday afternoon at 3:30, will turn the spotlight on guest stars from the stage and screen, and on his cast of regulars which features two stars of the hit, "Kiss Me Kate."

The opener was loaded with laughs, music, dancing—the kind of entertainment which should appeal to the distaff side, who up until now have had nothing but puppet shows and Wild West movies to take their minds off their homework. In addition, the show offers some fashion tips and commercial hints on shopping, which incidentally, came too frequently in the opener.

With Veronica Lake as his first sparring partner, Bert displayed an unusual flair for comedy. The two dominated the show with a cleverly conceived kitchen scene, which saw them bake a turkey. The bird was placed in the oven to cook and Parks and Miss Lake returned at the show's end to remove the cooked fowl, but, the very live bird bounded out of the oven and into the studio audience which was, by that time, in stitches.

The two "Kiss Me Kate" stars are Betty Ann Grove, songstress, and Harold Lang, dancer, both exhibited exceptional talent.

The orchestra, under the baton of Bobby Sherwood, was the production's one shortcoming. At times it sounded too brassy. Featuring only five pieces, it was inadequate as accompaniment for the songs of Parks and Miss Grove who did a grand job with "I Can Do Anything You Can Do."

Followers of Parks' other radio and TV shows are acquainted with the Atlantan's gift of adlibbing his way out of tight situations. He made the most of this gift Wednesday by retrieving some fumbled lines with some funny off-the-record gags all his own.

Parks' parents were in the audience for the first show. They had flown in from Atlanta especially for the premiere—the biggest step in Parks' long career.

Last Call Lost

TORONTO, Nov. 1—(AP)—William Pendleton, 55, dropped dead from a heart attack Wednesday as he raised his bugle to sound "The Last Post" at the grave of a veteran.

Calhoun Gains Moral Support

Calhoun's Yellow Jackets will have another rooter on their side Friday night when they meet Austell.

Coach Gerry Deleski was presented a six-pound five-ounce baby girl by his wife, the former Mary Nelson, of Calhoun, Tuesday in Floyd Hospital, at Rome.

The newcomer — Therese — will be a little too young to watch Friday's game, but she'll lend moral support from home.—JACKSON.

Rearmament Is a Long, Tough Job

If there has been in recent weeks too much complacency about the job of rearmament it ought to be upset by new developments in Korea and by warnings from Washington officials and industrial leaders.

In Korea Russian-made jet fighters have attacked our planes. The Air Force believes the enemy planes are based in China. Obviously, the North Korean Communists do not possess their own jet fighters which they are putting into battle at this late date. Reports of Chinese troops in action in Korea already have been confirmed.

The Communists would like to drag out the fighting into the Winter months, providing an excellent opportunity for guerrillas to harass our forces and perhaps paving the way for an organized counteroffensive next Spring. That way United States and other United Nations troops would be tied up in the Korean fighting for months to come. Virtually all our available ready fighting men, except those in Germany, are in Korea. Until new units could be trained this country would be without adequate defense and there would be no additional troops to send into Western Europe in event of a Russian attack there.

At home the chief enemy is inflation. Credit controls and allocation of materials already have been imposed. More will come after the election and there will be higher taxes. There already is talk of longer working hours, and that well may become a reality when military orders begin to appear in volume.

There will be higher prices and fewer civilian goods. The Agriculture Department predicts food prices will reach record levels next year. Use of copper, nickel and aluminum in civilian goods will be ordered cut 20 to 30 percent, curtailing the supply of radios, television sets and automobiles.

Economic Stabilization Director Alan Valentine has put the country on notice to expect rough going ahead.

"We need," he said, "to formulate a program for defense production, not for four years but possibly for much longer."

At about the time Mr. Valentine was speaking those words the head of the National Association of Manufacturers, Claude A. Putnam, was warning America would be a "garrison state" for many years.

It is going to be a long, hard pull that will require sacrifices not merely from those going into the armed forces, but from everybody.

Proper defense of the country, and of the Western World, no longer can depend upon frantic action, generated by the sudden heat of public opinion in an emergency. It is a long-term affair.

Don't Postpone Your Chest Gift

Reports yesterday showed collections of $968,000, leaving only $248,000 needed to reach the goal.

But despite every prospect of ultimate success and the encouraging fact that collections are considerably further along than at the same stage a year ago, it will be a tremendous task successfully to complete the campaign by Friday night, the appointed time. It will, to be exact, require gifts of about $200 every minute.

That Atlantans fulfill their obligation to the 31 agencies participating in the Chest, most of them assisting children, is a matter of community pride. A successful drive this year will be the second in succession.

Harllee Branch, Jr., campaign chairman, says raising the full quota is predicated on only two conditions. One is a full and devoted effort by the 7,000 Chest workers who already have set something of a record for hard work. The second is a warm and generous reception by all Atlantans who have not yet contributed.

Donations don't have to be large. In fact, one big effort of the campaign this year is directed at contributions of $5 and less. Last year more than 76,000 contributors were in this category and it is hoped there will be more this year. The wider the participation the more the Chest drive takes on the tone of a genuine, all-out community effort.

Doubtless practically everybody intends to contribute to the Community Chest. Many, though, have for one reason or another, postponed the time of their actual gift. With only two days left to go, now is the time for them to come forward.

Two Proposals For Safety's Sake

A committee named by Gov. Talmadge to draft a new traffic code for Georgia is considering mandatory jail sentences for the second offense of drunken driving.

The proposed law would invoke 10 days to a year in jail or a $100 to $1,000 fine as the first sentence in a drunk driving case and a minimum of 90 days in jail for the repeater. Maximum sentence for the second offense would be a year in prison and a $1,000 fine.

The proposed code also calls for annual automobile inspection. Involved here is a tremendous physical problem, but it is not beyond solution. Some states and many cities long have required inspection of automobiles. From the number of decrepit jalopies on our highways, inspection obviously is needed in Georgia.

Surely no one can find fault with those two recommendations toward safety. If anything, the drunk driving provision is still too lenient. We'd be in favor of a mandatory jail sentence for the first offense.

The General Assembly should not hesitate to enact these two features of the code into law.

Samuel C. Dobbs, Sr., Georgia Philanthropist

Samuel Candler Dobbs Sr. was a man of many affairs, but he was never too busy to take a deep and abiding interest in Georgia educational and charitable institutions, to which he contributed hundreds of thousands of dollars.

Mr. Dobbs' rise in the business world was the Horatio Alger type story. Coming to Atlanta from Carroll County, he began work for a drug concern owned by his uncle, Asa G. Candler. Five years later he became connected with the Coca-Cola Company and began a rapid climb which ultimately led him to the presidency of that firm. He later relinquished the presidency of Coca-Cola but continued as a director. He also served as a director of other national and international concerns.

Mr. Dobbs' chief interests were underprivileged children and education. He gave large sums to many charities and his gifts to Emory University, Reinhardt College and LaGrange College for Women are said to have totaled $1,000,000 in the past 10 years.

If Mr. Dobbs enjoyed his brilliant success as a businessman, he enjoyed even more giving his money and attention to help provide educational facilities for those who otherwise might not have them. In his death Georgia has suffered a grievious loss.

THE PULSE OF THE PRESS

By Tradition

(Quitman Free Press)

Commissioner Linder is reported as making a speech lately urging that the Confederate tradition be preserved in this, our fair Southland.

How about voting for Helen Dortch Longstreet who is a candidate for governor? She is the widow of a Confederate general and electing her governor would be a real gesture toward the Confederate tradition.

Political Monstrosity

(Lanier County News)

The county unit system not only contributes to political immorality, but it discourages development in metropolitan areas.

And when a State's metropolitan areas become weak, the entire State suffers. Suppose we people in Lanier County ask ourselves this question: "Why do so many more of our people pick a residence in Florida, where there is no county unit system, than they do in other Georgia places where we have this political monstrosity?"

Holleran Admirer

(Virginia P. Price in Louisville News and Farmer)

People in Our Town were all a-twitter when Cecil Holleran featured our Market House in the series of historic drawings he is doing on the editorial page of The Atlanta Constitution.

He is a student of history as well as an artist of note and the series is a fine contribution to Georgiana. He is never satisfied with any picture unless every detail is historically correct—the women's costumes, the soldiers' hats and armament and uniforms, and all architectural details. He is the author of the articles that accompany the sketches. One of the clever lines he used lately that has been widely quoted is "Many people think of Jekyll Island as a body of land entirely surrounded by politics."

Go Back 50 Years?

(Isadore Gelders in Fitzgerald Leader)

We unhesitatingly oppose the idea of our friend Roy Harris, whose solution of the color question in our public schools, would have us return to the three and four-month schools in the country districts of Georgia as we had them 50 and more years ago. It does not seem possible that Mr. Harris, who was born about the time the old system was ending in most of the rural schools and so has had no direct contact with those early conditions, would want them back.

GLADSTONE WILLIAMS

Democrats Have 'Favorite' Role

WASHINGTON—Considering the high state of prosperity the country is enjoying—the number of people with jobs, good wages, farm prices and unprecedented corporate profits—it is inconceivable that the Democrats are in for any major upset in the Nov. 7 elections. According to all past political traditions, the party in power is usually the beneficiary of prosperous times such as the present and the Democrats have the advantage of occupying that position.

Hence it would be a surprise no less than President Truman's upset victory over Gov. Thomas E. Dewey two years ago if the Democrats failed to come out on top in the current battle over the control of Congress. The overwhelming consensus of competent political observers here is that the Republicans, while scheduled to make some gains in both houses, will fall short of the mark of an outright majority in either.

Different The best evidence of how the situation stacks up in the final moments of the campaign is to be found in the attitude of the leaders of the two major parties. Democrats, for their part, are calm and confident, whereas the Republicans are a bit forlorn and only hopeful.

Perhaps a better insight into the situation comes from what the leaders are saying privately, since customarily both sides usually claim everything publicly. The Democrats not only say they are going to keep their grip on Congress, they insist they are going to increase their hold. And they are saying this privately as well as publicly, confiding that the reports they are getting from the field sound almost too good to be true.

On the other hand, the Republicans admit privately that they do not see where the gains are coming from to enable them to overturn the present heavy majority the Democrats hold in the lower House. As for the Senate, about the best they can see there is a gain of four or five seats, with a net gain of seven needed to give them control.

Even Chairman Guy Gabrielson, of the Republican National Committee, has been talking in a somewhat restrained note for one in his position. He is sticking to his earlier prediction that the GOP will gain a minimum of five Senate seats and a minimum of 25 to 30 House seats—neither of which would be sufficient. The Republicans will need 46 additional seats to take over in the House.

If the usual discount is applied to Chairman Gabrielson's estimate as to Republican prospects, the GOP would do well to gain about half the number needed in both houses, which put the figures back to a point accepted by most observers.

All Smiles Contrasted with this rather pessimistic outlook by the Republicans, the Democrats are positively optimistic. Administration leaders think they have spotted a late-starting Democratic trend which some think has the makings of showing an actual party gain in the battle over Congress. Few observers think the "trend," if there is one, will go that far, however. Only once in modern history has the party in power increased its Congressional representation in an off-year election. That was in 1934, when the Roosevelt tide was in its flood stage.

The history of off-year elections, when no Presidential contest is involved, is for the party in power to lose strength. Losses rather than gains in Congress are the order of the day.

GEORGIA EDITORS SAY:

The Dragon's Teeth

In Gainesville Daily Times

A somewhat frustrated, if not, in fact, desperate attitude, may be heard expressed from all quarters of the State by people who are concerned with the lack of organized opposition to Herman Talmadge and his attempts to create a machine in Georgia politics. It could be that Mr. Talmadge's latest move to weld his name-plate to the Governor's desk will start a political backfire that might blast him right out of office.

Various Reasons In the past a great many people have voted and campaigned against Mr. Talmadge for purely political reasons—simply a case of the outs wanting in. Another large group of voters have opposed him because of the sometimes shady, sometimes outright brutal tactics, both alleged and proved, used by the Governor to gain and keep office. Some oppose him for political reasons, others for reasons of principle.

This opposition solidifies during actual campaigns for office, but seldom has shown the least cohesion after the votes are counted. The opposition sits back and waits for the passage of four years, hoping it can win next time. This is usually the fate of political factions built on opposition rather than concrete, constructive programs.

Now, however, Mr. Talmadge has started tinkering with one of the basic rights of a democratic people—their vote. And the people are fighting back. The organization of this defense, although rather sketchy, is being made on different lines from the usual campaign opposition. It is made up of people who realize the great depth to which the county unit system cuts into their political rights. They are fighting FOR something, and they have rallied together for the battle. Their attitude is positive rather than negative. The issue of an equal vote is at stake rather than personalities and politics. Their strength has a chance of survival in a cohesive organization.

The strength already possessed by those defending their rights is shown in the typically Talmadge speech the Governor delivered recently advocating the passage of the constitutional amendment that would extend the county unit system to our general elections. Our Governor usually reserves this sort of oratory for his campaigns.

Sugar-Coated He wrapped his bitter, undemocratic pill in the "sugar"-coating of race hatred, booger-man words describing his version of city folks' political ambitions and fantastic predictions of what will come to our courts and county governments unless the amendment is passed.

This "sugar" is becoming increasingly distasteful to the people of Georgia. And, more and more citizens are waking up to the fact that few of the horrors described by Mr. Talmadge have existed for long in Southern States without a county unit system.

A State-wide committee has been formed in defense of the equal vote. This committee, albeit loosely tied together, could perhaps be the nucleus of the long-dreamed-of second party in Georgia politics. It needs but a name and support by those Georgians who desire political campaigns fought out along the lines and issues and platforms rather than personalities and personal ambitions.

If a second political party has been conceived in Mr. Talmadge's amendment, whether it is passed or defeated, then we can say the Governor has performed at least one service for progress in Georgia.

UMT Is Insurance

The Editors: There has been a great deal said lately on the pros and cons of Universal Military Training. For the information and edification of those who have not and do not follow the cycle of world events, I would like to tell them what UMT is. Universal Military Training is nothing more than life insurance that pays off while you are able to collect in person. It is the know-how of survival when the odds are against you. It is the unhurried teaching of tomorrow's combat man in the military way of self-preservation.

Bible In Schools

The Editors: In reply to "Church and State" in your issue of the 25th, I wish to say, while I am wholeheartedly opposed to coalition of Church and State, or doctrinal teachings in our public schools, I would sooner advocate the elimination of "Memory Gems," a book on science or civics, or for that matter any other subject taught in Georgia's schools, than God's textbook, the Bible. Bible memory gems are real treasures stored in the mind and, we hope, in the heart of each pupil. Should these same verses be taught in the home all the better, if not, to say the least, our schools are making more intelligent our citizens of the future. No human mind could have conceived or penned many of the magnificent portions of the Bible.

And certainly the recognition of God in an opening prayer for the day's school work, or for any day's work, is not amiss in a nation whose coin bears, "In God We Trust."

Aid to Parochial Schools

The Editors: I have relatives in Atlanta and make as frequent visits as I possibly can, because I love Atlanta. I find, however, every time I come up here The Constitution publishes letters in its subscriber column which reflect on one of our largest religious sects.

I am not a member of that church, but it does seem to me that it must have something beyond human strength to guide it, because since the Resurrection it has been going strong and stronger as the years go by, and persecution seems only to make it thrive.

I am referring particularly to Mr. G. H. Rarey's letter regarding aid to parochial schools. Has Mr. Rarey taken the trouble to inform himself before writing this letter? For my understanding of the request made by the Catholic schools for a share of the money appropriated for books and bus is that it is based on the fact that the Government appropriation is made according to the number of school children in the State, and if Mr. Rarey, or anyone else, can tell me how the church, or school, can benefit by a bus ride given to a Catholic child—or to the many Protestant children attending these parochial schools—any more than the State can benefit by a bus ride given to a public school child, I'll take a back seat. W. J. O'NEILL.

Full-Time Schools

The Editors: For about two months I have been carrying an article by Leo Aikman around trying to find time to write about the subject, "Why Not Run the Schools Full time?" I am heartily in agreement. Here are the reasons we don't:

1. The teachers don't want it.
2. The students don't want it.
3. It gets hot in the Summer.

Such as they are, those are the answers the school officials gave me. I would like to give my answers.

1. Some teachers probably most definitely want and need Summer employment. It is my most critical problem. With a family of several wee ones, it is impossible to go off to work, nearly, and at any rate most unprofitable. The answer, satisfactory to all teachers, is to guarantee all teachers Summer work if they want it. Let those who want off rest (I never heard of this), study or travel or get other jobs. But hire teachers on a 12-month basis. We could get and keep much better people.

2. A lot of students don't want Summer school—only a fraction prefer it, since papa is paying the loafing bill. But, as mentioned, special courses of all types could be arranged, and this in turn would give teachers the change which is desirable from all standpoints. Many colleges have a larger enrollment in the Summer than in the school years.

3. I believe a remarkable new invention called air conditioning would go a long way toward fixing this. But, seriously, letting multimillion-dollar plants sit idle 25 percent of the time is absurd. And each year thousands of teachers like their Summer work and rate of pay so well they never come back.

Please keep plugging this angle as time goes on. It is a sound and right thing.

Atlanta. A TEACHER.

No Bosses?

The Editors: We have been reading with a great deal of interest and amusement Jack Tarver's views and comments on the merit of the unit system. It is amusing to see him try to twist the facts to suit The Constitution's point of view. We think it would be more fitting for Jack to stick to his hooligan witticisms and leave politics to statesmen like Roy Harris and Fred Hand.

Jack repeatedly reiterates the fact that Georgia is the only State that has the unit system, but he refrains to remind his readers that so far Georgia has not had a Tennessee Crump, a New York Tammany, a Kansas City Pendergast, a Louisiana Long or a Jersey City Hague.

"Remember the grace of our Lord Jesus Christ, who though He was rich, yet for your sakes became poor, that ye through His poverty might be rich." (2 Corinthians 8:9.)

At a banquet Clarence Stoughton asked the man next to him why he had given so lavishly through the years to hospitals, orphanages, Christian schools and colleges, and to every phase of enlightenment and relief.

The man had a ready answer. He said simply, "I wish I could tell you how good God has been to me all my life."

Whether one has much or little there is no escaping this obligation of the unmerited goodness of God.

It takes hold upon all that one is and possesses and places it at the command of human need.

Forgive us, O God, that we so easily forget. Grant now that we may be living sacrifices, holy, acceptable unto Thee.

Peace, It's Wonderful

Autumn on the Potomac

WASHINGTON, D. C.—It was a fine fair day here last Sunday, so President Truman and I improved the shining Autumn hour by taking a cruise on the Potomac and adjoining waters. Of course Mr. Truman was on his yacht, the Williamsburg, and I was on a somewhat smaller vessel, and Mr. Truman went down the river, and I went up the river, and we did not so much as give each other a cheerful hail in passing, since we did not pass. But that's all right. It was a fine day anyway and I hope Mr. Truman had as much fun as I did. I was aboard a dapper little vessel called the Estella Maria, a cabin cruiser about 14 feet long and maybe half that wide, which chugs along at about four knots on its four-cylinder engine. The Estella Maria belongs to Mr. Willard Cope, who is the brother of Channing Cope, or Cope the Navigator.

Mr. Willard Cope is a true old salt who does not run his boat aground, like Mr. Channing Cope does, the main reason being that the Estella Maria draws only a foot and a half of water and is such a sound little craft, Mr. Cope says, that he could almost sail her in a heavy dew in the park.

The Estella Maria was named for Mr. Cope's ever-loving wife, a sweet and lovely lady who sails the Potomac wearing a red checkered lumberjacket, slacks, and a long-billed baseball cap. Mrs. Cope often takes the wheel herself, peering first at the chart to see that no shoal water is in the offing and then watching the course ahead to be sure that the Estella Maria does not strike any floating tree limbs, beer cans, or other flotsam, the Potomac being full of flotsam at times, with a considerable amount of jetsam.

While engaged in navigating a particularly tricky stretch of water, I told Mrs. Cope that she reminded me of the late Miss Annie Brennan and she said thanks very much but she did not believe she knew Miss Brennan and I said "You know—Tugboat Annie," and Mrs. Cope said one more crack like that and she would strike me on the mazzard with a marlinspike and toss me overboard to the catfish.

Frivolity aside, a boat trip on the Potomac on a fine clear Autumn day is a beautiful and exhilarating experience. We put out about the middle of the morning, down the Washington channel with a clean cool breeze blowing and a bright sun shining. On one side sleek white yachts with tall slim masts lay at anchor, with people aboard busily chipping and painting—Mr. Cope says that Washington yachtsmen seem to spend more time puttering around on their craft than they do sailing them—and on the other was the great green expanse of Potomac Park, with willows down by the water's edge, very lacy and green in the misty sun, and people sitting along the seawall, holding hands and making love to each other, a very pleasant pastime on such a morning.

We paused briefly at the point of land where the Anacostia joins the Potomac, so that Mr. Cope could listen to the sound of the bell buoy there. This is a big copper bell, fixed firmly, and as the waves rock the buoy the four clappers, which swing free on the outside, strike it and it gives off a sweet golden note that floats across the water like, Mr. Cope says, the sound of the bells that ring when the gates of heaven open.

We then chugged sturdily up the Potomac, and if you have not seen Washington from the river you have not seen it in its beauty. There are ancient trees along the river, oak and elm and maple, and at this time of the year they are aflame with gorgeous color. And in the background rises the slim spire of the Washington Monument, the great dome of the Capitol, the round top of the beautiful Jefferson Memorial, and the Lincoln shrine. Cathedral towers rise, and there is the sound of their bells, and in the air great planes swoop in the sun above the city, sliding majestically to earth at the many airfields that ring the town.

The ride leads on past old Georgetown, with that hideous red brick brewery, as its outstanding landmark from the water, but on the left, if this sight displeases you, which it will, you can look to the crest of a fine high hill and see the columns of stately Arlington, Robert E. Lee's serene Virginia homestead in the long ago.

Not far upriver from Georgetown the whole country on the left bank becomes wild and wooded and looks as it must have looked long, long ago, before there ever was a Washington. Here little creeks tumble in waterfalls down to the tawny river and there floats on the wind the fine smell of the forest in Fall, the wonderful wine-like smell of Autumn itself.

Farmers Need Cheap Money

In our accumulated mail are a number of letters having to do with credit. One of them is from a man losing his farm because (so he says) he can't make it pay out in its present limited program of row-crops only.

Another is from a man calling our attention to a program of farm credit being adopted (so he says) by the bankers of North Carolina. Another letter is from our neighbor Hugh Aiken, of Heard-Mixon District in Newton County, who represents the Madison Production Credit Association, which lends money to responsible farmers and stockmen in this area.

The Difference The difference between taking advantage of our unexcelled opportunities in livestock farming and of keeping on as we have in the past, depends to a great extent on the farmer's ability to make use of cheap money. Like the railroads, power companies and banks, the farmer needs greater capital than he individually possesses.

To make his expansions out of earnings might easily require an entire lifetime. To do his fencing, build his pastures, provide stock ponds and other essential needs for his livestock requires considerable money. To accumulate his herd of brood cattle requires still more money. To insist that he make these expansions out of earnings is like requiring a railroad to build its dams out of earnings or a bank to operate on earnings instead of on borrowed money. Take the borrowings away from any of these important institutions and you wouldn't have much left, certainly not enough to meet their requirements.

The farmer is no different. Give him the opportunity to use cheap money over long periods and he can increase production, make full use of his time, save on his purchases and manage his affairs more profitably.

Put Crime on the Agenda

As long ago as 1946 Georgia led the nation in the total of persons handed from the courts to custody of the state's penal system. Although national figures for the past year aren't available it seems there is a pretty good chance Georgia is maintaining its lead, perhaps even going farther out front. The current issue of the Statistical Abstract of the U. S. reports that in 1946 3,575 convicted persons were committed to custody of the Georgia Board of Corrections. New York was second in number of persons transferred to its penal institutions, with 3,150. In the fiscal year that ended June 30, 1950, Georgia had 5,283 new penal cases. Crime, of course, has been on the upsurge during the past few years, so it is taken for granted that all states are gaining in prison population.

Law enforcement and prison authorities all over the country are concerned, naturally, with the increase in crime, and many are pondering the question, "What to do?" One of the short-range conclusions regrettably reached is: Build more prisons. Georgia is doing that. But J. B. Hatchett, Assistant Director of the State Board of Corrections, points out "the place to stop crime is before it reaches the penitentiary."

Concern with crime, particularly the high rate here in Georgia, is part of the problem facing the State in trying to provide a better future for the one-third of its population that is under 15 years of age. Georgia has many more children than most States, and it is of concern to Georgia that these future citizens have a decent place to live.

Too many of their elders have left Georgia during the productive years of their lives, thereby denying the State their vitality and income.

Hatchett says that most of those in Georgia prisons are persons with limited education, those who dropped out of school early and left the main stream of orderly progress to responsibility and citizenship. Since only about one-third of the white students and one-tenth of the Negro students who start out in Georgia's school system receive a diploma, it is apparent there is a large contribution to this background cause of later trouble.

The schools, of course, can't do the whole job, nor can any program of mental health. The parents have their own stake, and their own role.

Georgia's stake is its children—and remember that we are dealing with a bumper crop of future citizens—is wrapped up in its schools, its health program, and its effort to combat crime.

Perhaps the inclination is to throw up the hands and say what's the use? There always will be crime, and there always will be prisons. Yet, one finds it difficult to sit and bask in the revelation Georgia leads the nation in numbers sent to penal institutions. Dealing with the intangible business of why a person becomes a criminal seems difficult at best, but the place to start is to have a deep concern with the matter.

So put crime on the agenda along with the other problems Georgians face in planning a better future for the one-third of its population that lives today in childhood.

The GOP Has Been Mending Fences

Special to The New York Times and The Atlanta Constitution

WASHINGTON—The Republican political organization has rallied from the shock of its 1948 defeat. It is still split in some states, notably Pennsylvania, Missouri and New Hampshire, and it still hasn't decided whether to give its global soul to Sen. Robert A. Taft or Sen. Arthur H. Vandenberg, but it now has more vigor at the top and better organization at the bottom. The leaders of the party tend to agree that in the long run only a great figure (guess who), a great inflation or a great depression is likely to bring the party into complete control of the Government in 1952, but meanwhile, they are undoubtedly making progress on the reconstruction of an effective political machine. All kinds of new organizational devices have been tried in this campaign. In the first place, the GOP has tried with considerable ingenuity to tighten things up at the precinct level, and in the second place it has concentrated on organizing something more than money.

In Colorado, for example, where Sen. Eugene Millikin, ranking member of the Senate Finance Committee, is in a tight race, the Republicans have organized the urban areas block by block, with a large group of young volunteers ringing doorbells on behalf of a new organization called Republican Associates.

IN OHIO, State Republican Chairman Ray C. Bliss has assigned voting quotas to every county chairman, based on careful studies of past elections, in the hope of adding between two and three percent to the Republican county totals of 1948.

This is the system widely used by the Community Chest in its fund-raising campaigns. It is a contest between the counties, complete with the usual awards of scrolls and plaques to the counties that do the best job, and it undoubtedly has provided new incentives to those who are trying to re-elect Sen. Taft.

Special efforts have been made by the GOP, too, to get the cooperation of so-called nonpartisan groups who have special reasons for wanting to elect a Republican Congress, notably doctors, dentists and their wives, who oppose the administrations' health insurance plans.

This particular group, which has never in the past been noted for its political activity, is more effective than is generally realized. In one large area, for example, an ingenious job has been done in getting hospitalized patients registered and ready to take part in the election. The invalid vote may not be decisive, but the Republicans figure it won't hurt.

A Republican school of politics (how to lick a Democrat in five easy lectures) was organized last Spring. Experts on political organization, some of them with distinctly earthy and un-Republican ideas, have been touring the key states training the faithful on the art of mobilizing a lethargic and well-fed electorate. And the reports from various quarters indicate that this has been a useful enterprise.

THE REPUBLICAN National Committee is crying poverty here, but in the key races, particularly for the Senate, the chances are that no Republican will lose because he was broke. The money may not be coming into the National Committee's treasury in large enough packages to please Chairman Guy Gabrielson, but a lot of it is going direct to prominent Republican candidates, particularly to Sens. Taft and Millikin; to Rep. Richard M. Nixon in California and to Govs. James Duff of Pennsylvania and Thomas E. Dewey in New York.

Despite adequate finances and organization, however, the psychological problem before the active Republican Party organizers today is almost as difficult as the political problem of beating the old South-big city Democratic machine in a time of prosperity.

There are, of course, many new Republican Party organizers, but the leadership is still largely in the hands of men in their late 40s, 50s or 60s, most of whom have been wounded badly in the unsuccessful political wars against the New and Fair Deals.

Last time, sure of victory, they sat back on their fat prestige and were beaten. This time, they counted heavily on the Korean War to bring them through and again they were robbed of a major issue by the successful Inchon landings, directed by their own darling, Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

THE POLITICAL pressures of this situation, on the Republican Party organizers and leaders after an unexpected defeat and 18 years in the political wilderness, are considerable. Psychologically, many of these men seem to dwell somewhere in the political region between desperation and despair. They are spurred on in this election by a sense of guilt about their failure to organize harder in 1948, but are handicapped by the suspicion, revealed so often in their private conversations, that maybe some of their candidates are crying for a world that is gone.

Moreover, one is conscious in talking to these leaders and many other sincere and distinguished Republicans this year of a personal factor that is now beginning to harass them in their meditations about whether the Republican Party should choose the liberal path or turn to the right a: an avowedly conservative party.

In short, the Republicans have solved many of the problems of political organization, but like the Democrats, they are still deeply divided on the more fundamental questions of political philosophy.

Assumption of Mary Is Taken Into Creed

VATICAN CITY, Nov. 1—(AP)—The ancient Roman Catholic belief that the Virgin Mary was taken into heaven in body as well as in spirit became an article of the church's creed by proclamation of Pope Pius XII in a spectacular ceremony Wednesday.

A multitude regarded as the greatest assembly of its kind since the start of Christendom prayed and cheered under the eyes of the Pope in St. Peter's square. Vatican sources estimated the crowd numbered more than 500,000. Church bells pealed throughout Rome. At dusk floodlights bathed the great square and St. Peter's Basilica.

As night came on around the world, Catholics lit up their churches and homes in rejoicing. Millions of lights flamed.

From the moment of the proclamation of the dogma, or doctrine, of the Assumption of Mary, the mother of Jesus Christ, all the 425,000,000 communicants of the church were required to accept the belief or risk exposure to the sin of heresy.

Eugene Cardinal Tisserant of France, who last month celebrated a pontifical mass in Savannah which marked the centennial of the Savannah-Atlanta Diocese, participated in the ceremony. As sub-deacon of the Sacred College, it was he who requested in Latin the Pope to declare the new dogma.

UN Extends Lie's Term For 3 Years

NEW YORK, Nov. 1—(AP)—The UN General Assembly Wednesday extended Secretary-General Trygve Lie's term for three more years despite a Soviet bloc threat not to deal with him.

By a vote of 46 to five with seven abstentions, the Assembly supported the United States position that Lie should be kept in office as an expression of confidence for the way he handled the Korean case.

Before keeping Lie in the $40,000 a year job the Assembly rejected a Soviet resolution to toss the matter back to the Security Council which had failed to agree on a candidate after a month of consideration. The vote on the Russian proposal was nine in favor, 37 against and 11 abstaining.

Georgia Allotted U.S. Health Funds

Georgia has been allotted Federal grants totaling $3,713,014 for public health services for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1951, Richard H. Lyle, Regional Director, Federal Security Agency, said Wednesday.

States must appropriate funds on a matching basis, Lyle pointed out, to take full advantage of Federal funds.

Georgia's total was divided into the following grants: venereal disease control, $313,000; tuberculosis control, $204,100; general health, $379,600; mental health, $72,700; heart disease control, $44,100; cancer control, $72,500; water pollution, $19,600, and hospital construction, $2,609,914.

GRANTED DIVORCE

Dr. Peter Lindstrom

Lindstrom Is Granted Divorce From Bergman

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 1—(INS)—Dr. Peter Lindstrom Wednesday was awarded a divorce from screen star Ingrid Bergman after relating in detail how his wife deserted him to keep a romantic rendezvous with her current mate, Italian film director Roberto Rossellini.

The divorce was granted by Superior Judge Thurmond Clark without specifiying any grounds.

The soft spoken Swedish-born surgeon testified that his glamorous actress-wife embarked on her fateful rendezvous with Rossellini shortly after she had agreed to have another baby by Dr. Lindstrom.

Dr. Lindstrom related to the court:

"Before she left for Italy to make the film 'Stromboli' we vacationed at Aspen, Col. We made plans for the future and we both agreed we wanted another child.

"We were very happy all through our marital life. The last thing Ingrid did before she left for Italy was to select wallpaper for a new nursery we planned for our home."

Lindstrom's attorney, former Judge Isaac Pacht, ignored the Mexican decree obtained by proxy by Miss Bergman last February, after she became the mother of a son fathered by Rossellini, whom she subsequently married.

The doctor testified he learned of Ingrid's love affair with Rossellini "through the press."

He related:

"It was a shock to me. Then she wrote me a letter she planned to stay in Italy forever."

WICHITA, Kas., Nov. 1—(AP)—County Attorney Johnnie Frank said Wednesday he would recommend a parole for Jose Rafael Aviles, 23-year-old Puerto Rican who has been held in jail since last Spring on a charge he falsely represented himself as Tuzo (Kid) Purtuguez in a fight here.

Frank said, if convicted, Aviles could be sentenced to one to five years in prison and would be eligible for a parole in eight months. He explained Aviles already has spent several months in jail in default of bond and that he (Frank) felt he had been punished sufficiently.

ALBANY, Nov. 1—Eleven acres of forest fires and 16 acres of grass fires occurred in Dougherty County in October, Robert Tift, forest ranger, reported. Tift said the forest fires endangered 1,900 acres which might have burned without protection, and the grass fires endangered 560 acres.

Fulton Gives Department Heads Raise

Fulton Commissioners Wednesday voted county department heads approximately 20 percent cost-of-living raises in approving a new wage scale retroactive to July 1. The new scale, which will add $3,000 to the 1950 payroll, follows:

County Agent $6,000 a year, Health Commissioner $8,000, Clerk of Civil Court $6,600, Marshal Civil Court $6,600, Tax Assessors $7,000, Chief of Police $8,100, Alms House Superintendent $3,800, Recreation Director $5,600, Purchasing Agent $7,000. License Chief $4,800, Public Buildings Superintendent $7,000, Clerk of County Commissioners $7,500, Director Public Works $8,400, Planning Administrator $7,000. The County Attorney and his assistants were voted an additional $300 per year.

The board elected Charles Boynton, County Land Agent, to fill Reese Perry's seat on the Board of Tax Assessors. Perry recently retired. Boynton has been with the County for 26 years.

The Commissioners set Dec. 6 as date for a public hearing on an amendment of the Fulton County zoning law to make use permits reviewable by the board of zoning appeals.

Stassen Set For Reply To Truman

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1—(U.P.)—Harold E. Stassen will make the Republican reply to President Truman's Saturday night political address at St. Louis.

The former governor of Minnesota and president of the University of Pennsylvania will speak over the Mutual Broadcasting System at 10:30 p. m., EST, shortly after Mr. Truman goes off the air.

The President will deliver his only political speech of the election campaign at 10 p. m., EST, over the four major radio networks. The program also will be televised.

The Republican National Committee said Stassen was chosen to give the GOP reply by Chairman Guy George Gabrielson. Sen. Owen Brewster, Republican, Maine, chairman of the Republican Senatorial Campaign Committee, and Rep. Leonard W. Hall, Republican, New York, chairman of the GOP Congressional Campaign Committee.

New Drive Started for Big Carrier

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1—(AP)—A new drive started in Congress Wednesday for construction of a super aircraft carrier explicitly designed to mother planes capable of delivering the atomic bomb.

Rep. Vinson, Democrat, Georgia, said he would introduce a bill in the short session of Congress starting this month to authorize the building of such a carrier, long a fond dream of the Navy. He is chairman of the House Armed Services Committee, and before the reorganization of Congress was one of the most powerful members of the old Naval Affairs Committee.

What he has in mind is a 60,000-ton craft, either of flush-deck design or else with small superstructure that would present a minimum of interference for landing and takeoff operations of good-sized bombers. The Navy's biggest carriers now are 45,000-tonners. Even from them fliers have contrived to launch A-bomb size aircraft; recently such a plane negotiated a landing on a 45,000-ton carrier.

Chinese Reds' Role in War Meager So Far

TOKYO, Nov. 1—(AP)—Top U. S. commanders say the Chinese Communists so far have put up only token resistance in Korea.

They expect the next few days to be decisive. Those days will decide whether the war is almost over or whether it will drag on.

The test is whether the Chinese Communists intend to throw into battle a substantial number of their best troops.

The appearance of the full Red Air Force also would change the course of the campaign.

But the officers are convinced the Chinese troops so far identified in action and the appearance of Red aircraft do not signalize the kind of reinforcements necessary.

They see the opposition now meeting United Nations troops as a last-minute gesture, not the start of a long defensive campaign.

Life Insurance Benefits For Women Explained

By YOLANDE GWIN

Women, who own forty billion dollars of life insurance (one-fifth of all in the United States) have a still greater stake in insurance, according to a top ranking authority.

Mrs. Marion S. Eberly, Director of the Women's Division of the Institute of Life Insurance, gave housekeepers, teenagers and professional and business women a crystal clear picture of the importance of life insurance, its benefits, and knowledge, Wednesday night at the third Finance Forum sponsored by the Citizens and Southern National Bank.

Mrs. Eberly

"Because women today are sharing with their husbands in decisions about family money management, about its spending and its investment for the future," she said, "they are very wise in their insistence upon understanding the various financial channels available to families for creating financial security. Women receive about 75% of all payments made because of death of the insured."

Mrs. Eberly stressed optional settlements of life insurance policies because they allow the policyholder himself, or his beneficiary, to receive the proceeds of the policy in the form of income, either for life or for a specified number of years instead of taking the proceeds in one lump sum payment.

"These income optional settlements can be arranged when the policy is bought or they can be set up later if the family prefers," she added. "It is very important that every family review its insurance program each year to be sure the right beneficiaries are named."

The speaker pointed out that many women use life insurance to produce immediate cash to settle or offset Federal and State inheritance taxes.

The 1948 Revenue Act has dramatized a wife's economic value to her husband, she said, particularly in families having an over-all estate of sixty thousand dollars or more.

"Women in business and the professions," she said, "most of whom have financial responsibilities to other people, use life insurance for the same reason men use it. Homemakers own a great deal of insurance. This is important too, since the homemaker has her economic value to the family in addition to the breadwinner. Proceeds of her policy, in the event of death will provide funds to employ skilled help in carrying on the comforts of her family. Though her worth cannot be expressed in terms of dollars, many families make some provision for replacing her homemaking skills."

Ocean Flight Tests the Spirit

By DORIS LOCKERMAN

EN ROUTE TO PARIS—I was coasting along with tickets to "Call Me Madam" and "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes" in one hand, a reservation to "Die Meistersinger" and the Herald Tribune Forums in the other, feeling very smug about a good week in New York, when the phone rang.

"Bonjour, Madam," the voice sounded like Charles Boyer. "How would you like to fly wiz us to Paris, Casablanca, Rabat, Fez, London and the Riviera?"

"Oh, sure," I said, "it's been years since I've been in Morocco! Meet me for tea in the casbah!"

There was a moment of silence. "This is Ellis Reed, of an airline," said the voice. "I am serious. The French Government Office of Tourists invites you to join a party of newspapermen and women on a pleasure tour of France and North Africa. We leave tomorrow. We'll save you a seat."

I hung up, and pondered the invitation a long time, maybe a minute.

Then I called long distance. A husband, two sons, a major boss, a hearthside angel named Grace, all obviously stunned, said yes, by all means, go ahead. "A chance of your lifetime . . . again," said one of them weakly.

They airmailed a passport and wired some money, and all that remained for me to do was to stretch one week's supply of clothes for autumn in New York to three weeks' wardrobe in the varying climes of foggy England and sunny Cannes, not to mention good old Algiers, write a dozen letters proxying work, see about a vaccination, and write four columns to tide me over until these could begin coming home air mail. In Algiers you trust nobody, not even the cable office!

The next morning, with the aid of the Lon Sullivans, Mrs. Roy Booker, Mrs. H. B. Ritchie, of Athens, and the entire Cancer Society, which I had come to aid, I made it, with one hour left over for sleep. I was the first one at the departure station on Fifth Avenue.

Now, 12 hours later, the lights are on in the big Lockheed Constellation and we have been told we are nearing Paris. We have flown nonstop over the Atlantic, from New York, and not a person on board has even glimpsed the ocean.

Around me are John Sherman, of the Minneapolis Star-Tribune, whose wife, we have discovered, was a school friend of mine long ago; Richard West, of the Dallas Morning News; Miss Marion McEniry, San Francisco Examiner; Mrs. Eleanor Darnton, director of the Women's National News Service; Michel Boutin, French Government Tourist Office, and the aforementioned Mr. Reed. They will comprise our own little Cook's Tour that will take us as far as Marrakech, Meknes, Tlemcen, before we come back again to the Cote d'Azur for a few days before a return to New York Nov. 12.

The young stewardess on the trip has peered out the portholes into the early dawn as hungrily as if she had never flown this magic span before, counting the stars and exclaiming over the banks of clouds above us and below. We have watched the moon come up and almost go down, and there is a veil of luminous light in the east where the sun will soon rise while our watches still say it is barely more than midnight. It is 6 a. m. in France. We have lost six hours.

"It is never the same, the voyage," the girl said for us all. "I am more thrilled every time."

It is true. The same French hospitality proffers champagne, wine, chicken, pink slices of beef, crusty bread, endless plates of fruit and cheese, and the same courtly captain comes back to chat with the passengers for a minute or two now and then to report that we are flying at 20,000 feet, about 235 miles an hour, and all is well, but there is always a difference in each flight, seasoned travelers know.

It takes a frozen brain to resist the soaring thrill of flying in a great, powerful goose of a plane, its wings cutting through the night, flames spurting from its nostrils, and not come to think of it as alive and understanding, more than a machine.

They say ocean voyages are companionable and cozy, but an ocean flight is more than that. It is still daring and exciting, an event to test the imagination and the spirit.

Bon Voyage may be two pretty words to the leisurely ones, but those of us who are blessed with more curiosity than time prefer Bon Avion!

The Nippier The Morning the more folks appreciate that good-to-be-alive "Cream of Wheat" feeling. I mean the satisfaction and happiness that always follow a breakfast of delicious, nourishing "Cream of Wheat". From first-grader to old-timer, everyone loves its flavor, famous for over 50 years. And its tempting smoothness makes coaxing unnecessary, even with fussy eaters. Make enough to go 'round twice—it costs less than a penny a bowl!

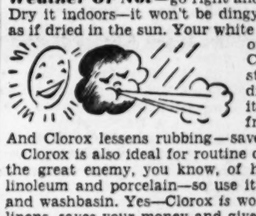
For breakfasters-on-the-run, Enriched 5 Minute "Cream of Wheat" cooks to full digestibility in only 5 minutes of boiling. And supplies substantial amounts of Iron, Phosphorus, Calcium and Vitamin B_1.

Place 1 teaspoon jam on each portion of "Cream of Wheat". Serve with milk.

Your Eyes Must Feel Good if you are to feel at your best in any situation. That's why I prize Murine so highly. I use it right through the day. Just 2 drops of Murine in each eye makes them feel waked-up and fresh in the morning. When used the same way at night, Murine relaxes my eyes for restful sleep. And, during the day, when overwork or the effects of dust, smoke or light glare tire your eyes, Murine's wonderful blend of 7 ingredients cleanses and soothes them as gently as a tear. Yes—Murine is the grandest thing in the world for all day eye comfort. I carry it with me wherever I go. You can, too!

Say "Kitchen Bouquet" and you're well on your way to gravy that's a beautiful brown to behold. You'll never have to worry whether pan-browning alone will give your gravy the deep, rich brown you want. We all know that way is undependable. That's why the Kitchen Bouquet way is one good cooks have prized for over 70 years. For Kitchen Bouquet does the trick easily. And the choice vegetables, herbs and spices so artfully blended in this unique product help bring out gravy's true meat taste as well as making it a glorious brown! Try one bottle, and like me, you'll never tackle gravy without its help. Just a little is all you need each time, so you'll find Kitchen Bouquet is really economical.

Weather Or Not—go right ahead and do your laundry—with Clorox. Dry it indoors—it won't be dingy-looking or musty-smelling, but fresh as if dried in the sun. Your white and color-fast cottons and linens turn out snowy-white and color-bright with Clorox. What's more, Clorox removes stains, deodorizes and makes your laundry sanitary. Your fabrics are safe with it, too. Clorox is extra-gentle . . . it's free from caustic and other harsh substances. And Clorox lessens rubbing—saves fabrics from wearing out too soon.



Clorox is also ideal for routine cleaning in kitchen and bathroom. It's the great enemy, you know, of harmful germs on wood, tile, enamel, linoleum and porcelain—so use it on floors, your sink, drainboard, tub and washbasin. Yes—Clorox is wonderful. It offers added protection for linens, saves your money and gives you extra health protection, too. Do get a bottle and let the label tell you all the benefits Clorox can give to you.

Penthouse Star This Week Performs Miracles In Make-Up

By BETSY LOCHRIDGE

Living with an actress is like living with a harem—only it's cheaper.

Chances are your better half will be sporting a hair lip at breakfast, a slinky, slim evening gown at lunch, and a starched nurse's uniform at dinner.

In fact, the only time you're apt to recognize her as the girl you married is before breakfast—and who wants to be recognized then?

Evidence of all this is pretty, sprightly Laura McClure, wife of Penthouse Theater general manager Bob McBride. Living a chameleon like existence, this shapely actress who stars this week in "Accent on Youth," can with a few make-up essentials, be anything from the hair lipped barefoot Ellie May of "Tobacco Road" to the super sophisticated sister-in-law of "Dream Girl."

Her other aids to living a dual life are her hair, which is long and flexible, and her wardrobe, which boasts everything from a maternity dress purchased from the Salvation Army for two bits, to a black shawl designed to be all things to all women.

Playing a sophisticated meany at night, rehearsing as a seedy country girl in the afternoon, and studying her lines as an innocent young secretary, Miss McClure has to look like, think like, and act like four people every day—and that includes being herself for a few precious, isolated minutes.

It's hard work, but the winsome actress wouldn't change it for anything.

After all, it isn't everyone who can be rich and happy one minute and poor and sad the next. The average man has to wait until March the 15th to work such a miracle!

Holding Normal Weight Keyed to State of Mind

The real secret of keeping slim is to change your thinking along with your food habits. True, the change in food habits reduces weight, but unless you change the way you think about food, the change in your way of eating is likely to be temporary. Then the pounds bounce right back on again.

An attractive young woman who buckled down and took off 25 pounds of excess weight with admirable determination is, alas, slowly but surely eating them back on! She has already regained 11 pounds and can't seem to stop overeating.

What's back of this? She still thinks about food the way she did as an overweight, particularly about starches and sweets. In a cafeteria, she looks for the biggest piece of chocolate cake . . . a corner cut with all the frosting. If she were thinking like a slim girl, her reaction would be to cut the piece in half and give part of it to a friend, for that way she could have the cake and keep her figure.

But this young woman reduced as an experiment, to prove she could do it. Taking off the weight had importance in her mind . . . keeping it off apparently does not have. That is the mistake many reducers make. They fail to change their thinking as the pounds are being lost. Then they still put food first.

There is tremendous power in thought. If you have a struggle keeping weight controlled, try doing it by psychology. Even if you don't believe it will do the trick, try it anyway. It will work!

Start with the subconscious mind, for that is the seat of habit. You have to sell your subconscious on the idea that you want to eat to keep a slim, young, attractive figure. Do this as you drift off to sleep tonight. That part of your mind takes over during sleep, and the instruction given at that time is the thought it has to work on. This may sound like "black magic," but it is psychologically sound. The subconscious mind believes what you tell it and proceeds to carry out instructions.

The technique during the day is to exercise creative imagination and see yourself staying slim and supple. Weight control becomes a game, an exciting game. You never think of slipping back—so you are not tempted to overeat. Food takes its proper place in your life. Once you put your mind to keeping beautifully slim, habit carries on. Then holding weight at normal is no longer an ordeal . . . it's a natural.

West Point Sends 1,000 To Revival

The largest train delegation in the history of Billy Graham's national religious crusade streamed into Atlanta Thursday night from West Point and the Chattahoochee Valley.

More than 1,000 men, women and children — many of whom went forward to confess following Graham's sermon—made the trip.

Gov. Talmadge greeted the visitors from a seat in the first row.

A quartet with a portable organ led hymn-singing during the train trip. Atlanta Transit Company carried the pilgrims to Ponce de Leon Tabernacle in 18 buses, directed them by walkie-talkie radio.

Dr. Graham assailed Communists and Red armies in the Orient during his energetic barrage against sin. With his voice cracking from the effects of a cold, he took a moment "to let my throat warm up." He then informed the crowd of 13,000 he has "talked with many Communists and knows some things the State Department doesn't know." He said, "We're in the Far East for a long, long time and prayer is our only chance for survival."

Over 200 people came forward following his sermon and expressed willingness to repent and "join hands with God." In four days, 60,000 people have attended the religious revivals, and 700 have asked forgiveness of their sins in responding to Dr. Graham's appeal at the climax of his sermons.

French Set Against German Divisions?

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1—(AP)—French Defense Minister Jules Moch predicted Wednesday night that France never will give up its opposition to the creation of German divisions for the North Atlantic defense force.

He gave his opinion at a news conference only a few hours after Secretary of State Acheson had predicted, also at a session with reporters, that the western democracies shortly will work out an arrangement to include German units in the force.

Scrap A-Bomb, Hoover Urges, When . . .

NEW YORK, Nov. 1—(U.P.)—Former President Herbert Hoover called Wednesday for the ultimate abolition of the atomic bomb, guided missiles and submarines but warned that world peace must come before disarmament.

He said, however, that Russia would never accept his proposals because "peace and good will are not in their hearts."

Hoover spoke at a ceremony at which Gen. Eisenhower presented him the first "outstanding citizenship" award by the Military Order of Foreign Wars.

Senators Still Seek 'Vice Overlord'

OAK RIDGE, Tenn., Nov. 1—(AP)—Sen. Kefauver, Democrat, Tennessee, said Wednesday the Senate Crime Investigating Committee has "made great headway" in learning how big-time crime operates, but still is seeking identity of a possible national vice overlord.

"We are not far enough into our investigation to determine whether there is one person in the United States considered the overlord of the crime syndicate," said the Senator, who is chairman of the committee.

"But we have got far enough to determine that there are well-organized gangs in the United States with interlocking directorships and ownership of interests," Kefauver added.

Unit's Effect Seen In Judgeship Races

By HOKE SMITH MAY

Several top legal observers said they believe Solicitors General and Superior Court judges may be forced to run statewide primary races for nomination if the county unit system is extended into the General Election.

Under the present system, these officers are required to run for nomination only in the circuits which they serve. However, they are elected on the basis of popular vote in the statewide general election.

At present, primary voting for solicitor and superior court judges usually is tantamount to election. The general election is generally considered only a formality.

Legal authorities, including an adviser close to Gov. Talmadge, point to paragraph four of the county unit amendment which states that all "State House officers" must make a statewide primary race "whenever any political party shall hold primary elections . . ."

Although legal authorities say the term "State House officers" never has been clearly defined under Georgia law, they add that solicitors general and superior court judges have been accepted in this category. Three State Attorneys General, including the present Law Department chieftain, have given weight to this opinion.

Chest Workers $284,094 Short Of Goal With Deadline Friday

Greater Atlanta Community Chest campaign workers must raise $200 per minute between now and their Friday deadline to "go over the top" this year.

Workers in four divisions Wednesday brought in $146,012, to swell the current total to $968,260 and give them 77.3 percent of the sum they're seeking. But only two days remain to reach that 1950 campaign goal of $1,252,354.

That $284,094 "deficit" must be made up, campaign leaders stressed—and fast. Leading group in newest reports is the Negro Division, which has raised 85.4 percent of its quota. The CIF Division, largest campaign group, reported 80 percent of its separate goal.

The Individuals Division needs $39,300 to reach its quota; the CIF Division, $148,397, and Public Employees Division, $19,121. Another special report meeting, entailing half of the entire campaign organization, will be held at 6:30 p. m. Thursday at the Atlanta Division, University of Georgia, Gymnasium.

Alabama Mill Ups Newsprint

COOSA PINES, Ala., Nov. 1—(AP)—The Coosa River Newsprint Corporation has notified all its customers of an increase of $6 per ton on newsprint, effective on all shipment made Wednesday.

A telegram to customers said the price raise was "made necessary as a result of increased costs of both labor and materials."

The mill, newest newsprint producer in the United States, is operating at capacity.

Acheson Concerned by Tibet Grab

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1—(INS)—Secretary of State Acheson Wednesday expressed grave official concern over the Communist Chinese invasion of Tibet and the reported participation of sizeable Chinese Red units in the Korean war.

Acheson told his news conference that if the Red drive into Tibet means a repetition of Communist aggression in Asia it is a most unfortunate, unhappy and serious matter.

He said the U. S. is deeply concerned over the presence of Chinese Communist soldiers in North Korea but that before any policy steps are taken the United Nations command will complete an investigation of how many and what kind of Chinese troops are involved.

Improvement Plan Blasted In East Point

East Point City Council Wednesday night blasted the Greater Atlanta Plan of Improvement, calling it an "extraordinary and revolutionary monstrosity of confusion, trickery and double talk, which neither the authors themselves nor their attorneys understand."

The resolution grew from a previous Council discussion in which Mayor E. J. Bass said three Fulton County Commissioners had told him East Point would lose considerable county financial support if the Plan is voted. Dr. Allen Albert, Jr., chairman of the local Government Commission which drew up the plan, saw "no way" the Plan could affect East Point or any other corporate area in the county.

The resolution alleged the Plan will increase taxes, would require "wholesale firing of employees," and would allow Atlanta to "control the future Fulton County elections." Council voted to allow Councilmar. Orville Parker, author of the measure, to have hand bills printed opposing the Plan, and to send them to East Point subscribers of water and light services.

Council let the bid for a new fire station to Central Construction Company for $120,483. The new city building will face East Point Avenue across Cleveland Street from the City Hall.

Club Officers

ELBERTON, Nov. 1—At the annual election of officers of the Kiwanis Club, Melvin C. Gorman was elected president for the next year, and Jack A. Acree and Dr. Jack A. Wheeler first and second vice-presidents.

Upson Casualty Lauds Infantry

Upson County's first Korean War casualty to return home, Cpl. Arthur Short, praised the courage of fellow infantrymen as he arrived to convalesce from back and nerve injuries.

"Our boys really did a wonderful job," he said, "and it was only the lack of manpower and supplies that made it such a slow war for us.

Cpl. Short, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Short, arrived in South Korea Aug. 2, went into action 24 hours later at the Naktong River and was wounded Sept. 18 by a North Korean grenade.

Colonial Stores Plans $3,000,000 Terminal

Colonial Stores, Inc., which operates 373 retail grocery stores in six Southeastern States, is asking bids on its plans to construct a $3,000,000 combination grocery warehouse-bakery-produce terminal on a 34-acre plot of land which it purchased last year in the Empire Industrial District at East Point.

This proposed structure will contain 450,000 square feet, or about 10 acres of floor space, under one roof. As planned, it will be the largest structure of its kind in the South. Colonial has not yet determined what it will do with the remaining 24 acres of the plot.

Grading of the plot was completed some months ago. The new building will front on Sylvan Rd. and will be served by the Central of Georgia Railway.

Colonial Stores, Inc., with main office in Norfolk, Va., did a business of $168,000,000 in 1949. It has 7,200 employees. Of its 373 stores 125 are in Virginia, 80 in North Carolina, 30 in South Carolina, 134 in Georgia and one in Florida.

Credit Sales Gain

Georgia consumers continue to buy heavily on credit, the Federal Reserve Bank of Atlanta reported Wednesday.

At the same time, FRB said the volume of sales, for both cash and for credit, during September increased greatly over the volume for the same month of last year. In the case of department stores, FRB said the increase was 13 percent, while furniture stores reported an increase of 29 percent and household appliance stores an increase of 75 percent.

Rail Rally Lifts Bonds

NEW YORK, Nov. 1—(AP)—Late buying in a selected list of rails helped the bond market snap out of a narrow range Wednesday.

Up to the last half hour there was virtually no outstanding feature to the day's activity and little in the way of trends. The stepped up demand appeared first in the rails and produced the best changes of the day. Utilities were only moderately active except for a few convertibles that follow the stock market almost automatically. Industrials participated in the irregular upturn only in a small way.

Sales of $3,230,000, par value, compared with $4,850,000 on Tuesday, which was the best day's business since Oct. 4.

Grains Lower After Rally

CHICAGO, Nov. 1—(AP)—Grains weakened toward the close Wednesday after an unsuccessful attempt to carry along with Tuesday's upsurge.

The market opened with a good burst of steam, soybeans rushing up nearly 5 cents. This proved only temporary. After the initial demand was taken care of, prices slid back.

Most metals held small fractions above the previous close until late in the session, when a slight expansion in selling sent many contracts under that line.

Great Britain bought a cargo of corn for shipment from Gulf of Mexico ports, but otherwise business was slow in export circles.

What closed ½-¾ lower, to ½ higher. December at 225¼, corn was ¼-⅜ lower. December at 1.54¼-⅜, oats were ⅜ lower to ¼ higher December 84⅞-¾, rye was ¼-⅝ lower, December 1.45¼, soybeans were 1½-3¼ lower. November $2.61¼-$2.61, and later was 2 cents lower to 13 cents a hundred pounds higher. November $12.30.

Cotton Futures Close Spotty

NEW YORK, Nov. 1—(AP)—Cotton futures were steady in slow trading Wednesday. A flurry of mill buying extended early gains to $1.25 a bale. The market then reacted partially on hedge selling. Many traders were just looking on in the belief that the Department of Agriculture will take no action on a further boost in cotton export allocations until after the next government cotton crop report on Nov. 8. Dealers reported that mills were buying spot cotton aggressively, partly because they fear that types of cotton they want may not be available by next spring.

The CCC reported that it had sold an additional 70,743 bales of its 1948 pooled stocks, indicating that only 150,000 bales of the stock remain unsold. Dealers, however, believed that subsequent sales have taken up all of the 1948 pooled stocks.

Late afternoon prices were 15 to 95 cents a bale higher than the previous close. Dec. 40.37, March 40.29 and May 39.97.

Prices closed irregular as increased hedge selling for prices lower in the final hour.

Futures closed 75 cents a bale lower to 30 cents higher than the previous close.

By HOWELL JONES

Frances Campbell Hughes and Lem Edmonson earned the right to be called opera stars Wednesday night as they combined their singing talents to conclude the Atlanta Opera Company's first three-day season with a moving performance of Massenet's "Manon" at the Tower Theater.

A well-filled house was on hand for the finale and the audience demonstrated its approval with enthusiastic applause throughout, particularly at the end of the five-act opera.

Mrs. Hughes, as Manon, and Tenor Edmonson as Chevalier des Grieux, easily were the outstanding performers. Both acted and sung like they were veterans at opera. And their poise, coupled with outstanding orchestral support, made the show well worth seeing.

The singers were aided by an able cast of supporting artists. The brilliant costumes and sometimes elaborate stage settings brought "ahs" from the audience. Highlights, however, were provided by the stars. Mrs. Hughes delighted the audience with her interpretation of the gavotte as well as her arias. Edmonson was effective in his singing of the arias "Promesse de mon avenir" and "En fermant les yeux."

Richard Valente again conducted the orchestra.

Your Stars Today

Sun in Scorpio

By MARION DREW

General Tendencies — The moon is in the sign Leo today, with a good many problems for people born in May, August and November. Perhaps the best indications here will be those connected with money matters but there is a tinge of extravagance and also a speculative quality connected with your deals. On the whole social affairs, family matters and settled friendships seem to afford the best opportunities for lasting satisfaction from today's activities.

If It's Your Birthday—Best months for you during the coming year seem to start around the late Spring or early Summer and to continue up through your next birthday. You are a member of the group which may expect change around the first of January, this being to your advantage and perhaps meaning a raise in pay or added responsibility. Don't be too quick to make up your mind about marriage here because you have better chances in the future even if you do have to wait a little to find them.

Jaycees Seek 'Man of Year'

The Atlanta Junior Chamber of Commerce is looking for the local "Young Man of the Year" for 1950.

Thomas B. Cresswell, member of the contest committee on nominations, said Atlantans can help find the outstanding person by sending in their recommendations before midnight Dec. 15, to the "Young Man of the Year" Committee, 812 Volunteer Building.

The candidate does not have to be a member of the Junior Chamber, and must be less than 35 years of age. If his 36th birthday was reached during 1950, his selection would be determined on achievements prior to that time. Judging will be based on the man's 1950 achievements in and contributions to Atlanta and vicinity.

Final selection will be announced in January.

Honesty Plus

LONG BEACH, Cal. (INS)—When bus driver Kenneth Fahs dropped a roll containing 100 tokens he pleaded with passengers to help him find them as he would have to pay for them out of his own pocket. He got 104 back.
